THE SENATE throws out Ford's Muscle Shoals plan, and some Senators take occasion in the process to abuse Henry Ford, who will always be ranked among the greatest of Americans and very likely as the most useful of Americans.

Who ever thinks that Henry Ford wanted Muscle Shoals for personal profit is foolish. By adding twenty-five dollars to the price of his cars, which no Senate can prevent, he would tomorrow add twenty-five million a year to his net income. More money is not Ford's object.

FORD WANTED to be useful to the farmers, and to show what could be done by water power, intelligently managed, apart from graft.

President Coolidge should get Ford to run Muscle Shoals for the people, the country supplying the money, Ford the brains and intelligence. That would make a great public ownership combination.

FIGURES PUBLISHED by the Chicago Evening American and Chicago Daily News, and admitted by both to be accurate, give information important to publishers. The Chicago American leads the Daily News in circulation by about 70,000 copies daily, and sells at three cents daily and five cents on Saturday, whereas the Daily News sells at two cents every day.

This shows that for quality the public is willing to share with the merchant and other advertisers the enormous cost of getting out a newspaper. The Chicago American has led the Chicago News in circulation continually since 1921 in spite of the great difference in price, and the gain of the American over the News increases month by month.

CONGRATULATIONS are due from all newspaper men to the Chicago American trio, Curley, editor; Black, the publisher; Meigs, the diminutive business manager.

Of these three working together in harmony, each eager to help the other two, one is a Protestant, one a Catholic, one a Jew. And that is a lesson to those afflicted with stupid race or religious prejudice.

A MORALIST EDITOR on the Milwaukee Sentinel, discussing the two young Chicago murderers, says, "If they had been soundly spanked every day or so in their adolescence, things might have been different."

They might, and they might have been worse, if that were possible. That innate depravity, or evil influence, result in dreadful murder is no reason why fathers and mothers should earn the hatred of their children by brutal souse of them.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN was not spanked every day or so in his adolescence, neither was Edison nor Henry Ford. But all three of them turned out well and never murdered anybody.

It is what's developed in the brain, not brutal chastisement applied to the body that decides a boy's career.

CIVILIZATION has passed various milestones, one "slavery," one "religious persecution," one the "torture of witnesses." This nation may pass another labeled "child labor," and throw off one more disgrace.

The Senate has passed the twentieth Constitutional Amendment to give Congress power to control child labor. The amendment now goes to the States, of which three-fourths must adopt it. This is a victory for women's clubs, the labor organizations and general decency. Medill McCormick of Illinois made an excellent argument in support of the amendment.

THE FRENCH Socialists, now in power, will investigate the J. Pierpont Morgan loan of $100,000,000, made to keep up the price of francs. They promise to expose gigantic plots in which French officials gambled in exchange and made $200,000,000 of private profit.

Those French Socialists, very young in government, should learn from this old-established republic. We investigate care-

BOY KILLERS GUARDED TO PREVENT SUICIDE

SCORES U. S. FOREIGN POLICY

Mayor Curley today delivered a scathing attack on the foreign policy of the present administration at Washington, and appealed to the delegates at the opening of the eleventh national foreign trade convention, at the Copley Plaza, to form a planning board which would remove the foreign trade policy of the United States from the hands of "politicians."

The Mayor made his appeal in an address delivered before the convention. He followed Governor Cox, who gave the address of welcome. Governor Cox told of the pride of Massachusetts in President Coolidge.

Mayor Curley then spoke. He declared that he, too, rejoiced with Governor Cox in the fact that a Massachusetts man is at the head of the nation, "but I deplore the foreign policy of the administration at Washington," he said.

"It is about time we returned to sanity in regard to commerce. I would like to see this organization

50,000 Divorces in U. S. in 1910 and 150,000 in 1922

Milwaukee, Wis., June 4. — Fred B. Smith, chairman of the citizens' committee of one thousand for law enforcement, principal speaker at the closing session of the Northern Baptist Convention, said: "Any man who says the Volstead act cannot be enforced is uttering treason."

In a denunciation of American lawlessness, he said:

"In 1910 there were 50,000 divorces in the United States; in 1922 there were 150,000. America now has the highest per capita divorce record in the world."

WOMAN "HEALER" MUST QUIT STATE

Mrs. Mary Fraga, fifty-eight years old, of Cambridge street, East Cambridge, was found guilty today in East Cambridge court of practicing medicine without a license. She was fined $200, but the fine was suspended when she agreed to leave the State.

The second game of the Reds-Braves series was called off shortly after noon today, when black clouds overhead began spouting rain drops. The tilt will be played as part of a double-header on the Reds' next visit here.

SAN SOVINO IS WINNER OF DERBY

Epsom Downs, England, June 4.—Lord Derby's San Sovino, favorite in the betting, won the classic Derby today in the presence of 800,000 spectators, including King George, Queen Mary and the Prince of Wales.

St. Germans, owned by Lord Astor, finished second, and Hurstwood, third.

Diophon, the overnight betting favorite, faded to get in the money.

San Sovino won by six lengths. The track was slow and wet. There were twenty-seven horses in the race.

Lord Astor's colors, in second place, were by no means new in that position, having occupied it on four previous occasions.

There was one false start in today's race, some of the entrants covering a full furlong before being called back. The horses were unruly at the post and the tape was broken several times.

Nothing short of a royal victory could have thrilled and pleased the crowd more than a triumph for the house of Derby, and the Earl was

RUM BOAT WRECKED IN BATTLE

New Bedford, June 4.—The yacht Fantasma, which was engaged in a battle with two patrol boats operated by Customs forces out of New London Sunday, was found, anchored and abandoned, 16 miles off Block Island by the Coast Guard cutter Acushnet and was towed in here today.

The Fantasma bore many marks of battle. The pilot house was dented in a number of places, apparently by revolver bullets, portholes were shattered and a life preserver box on top of the house was riddled with bullet holes.

There was very little oil in the tanks and the boilers were dry. The Fantasma is 111 feet long and equipped with powerful oil burning turbine engines. Painted beneath her name on the stern is the name "Preston."

She is not recorded in the American shipping registry.

In the crews quarters forward and aft bunks had been ripped out, providing storage space. There was no liquor aboard.

Lightning Struck Balloon

Rantoul, Ill., June 4.—A board of inquiry, composed of Lieutenants McKee, of Scott Field, and Eller and Smith, of Chanute Field here, decided that lightning struck the balloon in which Dr. C. L. Messenger and the pilot, Lieutenant James T. Neely had ascended from Scott Field Belleville, Ill., to make storm observations. The wrecked balloon and the bodies were found near Monticello, yesterday.

LEOPOLD JOKED WITH HER OVER CRIME

MISS SUSAN LURIE
(P. and A. Photo)

Miss Lurie, a co-ed at the University of Chicago, has told the police of her friendship for Nathan "Babe" Leopold, Jr., one of the confessed kidnapers and slayers of Robert Franks. Miss Lurie related how the evening before the crime was discovered Nathan laughed, saying what a good joke it would be for her to confess the Franks murder and he to claim the reward. Miss Lurie is of a wealthy Chicago family.

PAPERS WERE STOLEN, SAID COAKLEY

Papers in the Stearns case—in which Charles E. Stearns, artillery captain, and a young woman were trapped in a Cambridge apartment—were stolen from Daniel H. Coakley's office, the Coakley-Corcoran jury in East Cambridge Superior Court was told today.

U. S. WARSHIP READY FOR ALBANIAN RUSH

Washington, June 4.—The American minister of Tirana has asked that an American destroyer be kept in readiness to proceed to Durazzo, presumably to protect American lives and property endangered by the Albanian revolution, and the Navy Department has instructed Vice-Admiral Andrews, commanding American naval forces in European waters, to hold a vessel in readiness.

STUDENTS FACE NEW CHARGES

Chicago, June 4. — Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, millionaires' sons, admited kidnapers and slayers of Robert Franks, schoolboy son of wealthy Jacob Franks, have signed no confessions of guilt.

The State, which has asked the Grand Jury for murder indictments, must rely on testimony of witnesses who heard their statements.

Double guards have been placed to watch the county jail cells of the pale day and night until they are tried.

Fearful that either may attempt to carry out previously expressed suicide plans, all food taken to them is rigidly inspected, and jail employes have been cautioned to prevent smuggling to them of any means for self destruction.

The precautions were taken after a conference of jail officials with State's attorneys when the Grand Jury completed its first day's inquiry yesterday.

Robert E. Crowe, State's attorney, said he would not hurry the indictments against Loeb and Leopold and that every available witness would be called to testify before the Grand Jury. Eleven witnesses went before the jury yesterday, and more than a score remain to be heard.

POLICE SURE

"That the defense will be made by the most brilliant attorneys in the country is considered certain by prosecutors because of the reputed $15,000,000 represented by the parents of the youths.

"All the money in the world won't save these boys, however," declared Michael Hughes, chief of detectives. "It's the most nearly complete case ever gotten together. Upon the information given solely by Leopold

WALSH DENOUNCES "NOTORIOUS" PROPAGANDA

Washington, June 4.—The Congresional session has been "notorious" for the organized propaganda to which it has been subjected, Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, declared today in a speech criticizing the attitude of the busines world generally toward the legislative branch of the government. Using as his text an announcement that a big eastern company is discharging many employes because of action on the Bonus and Tax Bills, Senator Walsh cited "the propaganda for the Mellon plan and against the bonus and the various inquiries."

A Great Boston Institution

Near the Cambridge Street Bridge, on the banks of the Charles River, is a group of buildings filling an entire square and known as the Massachusetts General Hospital.

Founded in 1811 by a small number of public-spirited citizens, this institution has steadily grown and constantly ministered to the health, welfare and economic usefulness of the community. Its branch, the McLean Hospital, at Waverley, cares for the insane of the community. During the whole of its history, the McLean Hospital has occupied in this country a leading position in the humane care of those who are ill in mind or brain.

The Trustees of the Massachusetts General Hospital, as well as many of Boston's loyal and faithful physicians, are giving cheerfully and unsparingly of their time, in a spirit of unselfish devotion to this, the greatest cause in the world,—the Saving and Upbuilding of Suffering Humanity.

The Massachusetts General Hospital receives no money from State or City, its great work being sustained and continued through personal gifts from generous citizens.

It has always paid its way and does not owe a dollar, but is now in urgent need of money to enlarge and improve its main housing edifice, the Bulfinch Building.

The General Education Board has generously promised to pay one-third of the necessary expenditure of $300,000 if we, the citizens of Boston and Massachusetts, will raise the remaining $200,000.

To accomplish this purpose—to extend to each and every one the opportunity of giving to this great cause—is the reason for this advertisement.

We know that this appeal will be splendidly met in the interests of our "neighbors"—those men, women and children who daily throng the doors of this hospital seeking that to which all are entitled, irrespective of color, race or religion,—Health and renewed Strength to take up again the duties of life and Carry On.

Here, then, is your opportunity to help.

CHICAGO SLAYERS ARE NOW LINKED WITH THREE MORE CRIMES

INDICTMENTS IN FRANKS CASE EXPECTED TODAY

and Loeb we have unearthed too much corroborative evidence involving them to permit them to escape. I am certain they will receive the death penalty."

Samuel A. Ettelson, former corporation counsel and friend of the father of the slain boy, declared, "There'll be millions to fight millions."

"A confession means nothing," Prosecutor Crowe said. "I might easily be ruled out by a trial judge. It is in the witnesses to the incriminating statements the State places most reliance."

OTHER CRIMES

"I am confident that in that manner we will be able to get the two youths' statements to the trial jury in the event they repudiate their confessions and plead not guilty to the crime."

Investigation of possible connection of Leopold and Loeb in the shooting last Fall of Freeman Louis Tracy, university student, whose body, with a bullet hole through the head, was found near the school campus, has developed that the bullet killing him fits a pistol belonging to Leopold. Friends of Tracy have said he knew both youths.

Although Charles Ream, taxicab driver, victim last Fall of a mutilation attack, has identified Leopold and Loeb as his assailants, authorities are skeptical until an investigation, under way, has been completed. Unofficial inquiry also is being made into the death several months ago of Melvin Wolfe, pronounced a suicide by the police after his body was found in Lake Michigan. Wolfe lived in the same neighborhood as Franks, Leopold and Loeb.

Just what the defence will be is said to depend on future developments. It was reported during the day that the defence with a bold front would repudiate the confessions, but State's Attorney Crowe declared the evidence corroborating the confessions is too complete for any move of this sort to be successful.

Another avenue for the defence is an insanity plea. That might, it was pointed out, carry considerable weight with a jury.

VICTIM'S FATHER

Jacob Franks, aged father of the murdered lad, was the first witness before the Grand Jury. He went on the stand.

As soon as his brief story was over he begged permission to go home to the bereaved mother, whose condition, he said, was extremely bad due to the shock of her son's death.

The father's examination ran:

"You are the father of the Robert Franks who was murdered?"

"Yes."

"When did you last see him alive?"

"On the morning of May 21, when he left our home, at No. 5062 Ellis avenue, to go to the Harvard School."

Franks removed his glasses and wiped his eyes in an effort to maintain composure as the questioning proceeded.

FIRST GOOD CLEW

"And you next saw him?"

"In the undertaking parlors. He was dead."

Tears were streaming down his face and his voice shook.

As he left the building he expressed fear for the condition of Mrs. Franks. He said:

"She does not rally. Her condition is very bad and I am afraid of her."

Even more severe illness prevailed at the home of the parents of young Loeb. The father, Albert Loeb, vice-president of Sears-Roebuck, was dangerously ill. His heart trouble was complicated by extreme nervousness and an affliction of the throat. Mrs. Loeb was ill in bed.

Prior to the calling of Franks as a witness, State's Attorney Crowe gave the Grand Jury an outline of the case against the two youths, beginning with the disappearance of the boy and the discovery of his body the next day, ending with a recital of the dramatic confession and the subsequent incidents which he said make "a perfect hanging case" against Loeb and Leopold.

PHONE CALLS

Percy Van Der Bogert, druggist, of No. 1465 East Sixty-third street, was the next witness. His testimony, it is understood, related to telephone calls received at his store from "Mr. Johnson," the alias used by the prisoners in their negotiations for a ransom of $10,000.

According to their confession they arranged to have Franks go to the drug store and were to communicate with him there by telephone. He failed to go because he learned in the meantime that his son was dead. They telephoned twice and asked for him.

One call was received by Van Der Bogert, the other by the porter, James Kemp, who also testified today.

Irving Hartman, eleven, No. 5113 Ellis avenue, the last of Robert's playmates to see him alive, appeared at the State's attorney's office with his father, a furniture man, and was called before the jury.

GONE IN A MINUTE

It is understood he related the story he previously told the investigators—that on the evening of May 21, walking near the Harvard school, he saw Robert proceeding toward his home.

The little boy said: "I stopped for a minute to look at some tulips, and when I turned my head again Robert was gone. There was an automobile driving away from the place I last saw him."

The cause of death was established by Joseph Springer, coroner's physician. His findings were that strangulation killed the boy, and lacerations on the head, made, Leopold and Loeb said, by blows from a tape-wrapped chisel.

Sven Englund, Leopold family chauffeur, whose statement last Saturday morning was the link that broke down the two youths and shattered their alibi, also testified.

BETRAYED BY GLASSES

Testimony relating to the glasses by which Leopold was traced was given by Dr. Emil Deutsch, who prescribed them last Fall when the young student was complaining of headaches.

Through these spectacles, which were dropped near where the body was placed, Leopold was first connected with the case. He claimed he lost them while studying bird life.

To the evidence already in Crowe's possession was added today the final letter written by the youths in their endeavors to obtain the ransom. It was placed on a towel rack in a train that left Chicago, May 22, for New York. Franks, had he gone to the drug store and received the phone message, would have been directed to take the $10,000 on board the train and find the rest of his instructions in the letter.

HIS "ONLY CHANCE"

It was received in New York and returned. It reads:

"Dear Sir—Proceed immediately to the back platform of the train. Watch the east side of the track. Have your package ready. Look for the first large red brick factory situated immediately adjoining the tracks on the East.

"On top of this factory is a large, black watertower, with the word 'Champion' written on it. Wait until you have completely passed the south end of the factory. Count five very rapidly and then immediately throw the package as far east as you can.

"Remember that this is your only chance to recover your son. Yours truly, GEORGE JOHNSON."

In capital letters on the envelope was typed: "Mr. Jacob Franks."

Underneath was written:

"Should anyone else find this note, please leave it alone. The letter is very important."

LIKE RANSOM NOTE

The typewriting in this coincides, says Assistant State's Attorney Sbarlar, with that in the ransom letter received by Franks the day following the disappearance of Robert, in which the father got explicit directions as to his conduct.

The former letter was written by Leopold upon a portable typewriter, which he said he threw off a bridge between the motorboat and yacht harbors in Jackson Park.

The first day in jail was a long one for Leopold and Loeb. Loeb passed the time teaching a negro prisoner how to write.

Leopold, more sullen, remained in a corner reading a newspaper much of the time.

Both were required to clean their cells and aid other prisoners in mopping the jail floor. They were permitted to have their meals sent to them from a nearby restaurant.

Loeb wrote a note to a girl, expressing his love for her and asking her not to grieve for him.

On advice, however, of State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, Loeb destroyed this love missive.

Leopold regained his bravado long enough to declare:

"If I hang there'll be one boy in the room who will not tremble."

FIELD GLASSES

Chief of Detectives Hughes terming Leopold "as the man without a conscience" revealed two more details that showed the cold-blooded, calculating attitude of the slayers, both before and after the killing.

After the murder, both boys went to the inquest into the death of young Franks and calmly sat in the first row of spectators, listening to the coroner's version of how death took place.

The day of the slaying Leopold got a pair of field glasses from his home.

From a point of vantage, a block away, the youth watched a ball game in a lot at Forty-ninth street and Drexel boulevard in which Johnny Coleman and John Levinson, both of whom were on their list as potential victims, were playing.

As they watched the game broke up. The boys including young Coleman and Levinson ran in different directions. Leopold and Loeb circled the block several times but could not find their intended victims.

Then as they drove along Ellis avenue, Loeb said to Leopold:

"There's Robert Franks, he's a fit subject."

So he was killed.

They fraternized with newspapermen and with relatives and police, ejaculating surprise and astonishment at the atrocity of the killing.

Lilies Sent Slayers With Ironic Note

(Copyright, 1924, by Universal Service)

Chicago, June 4.—Four long-stemmed white lilies were sent to the county jail—two each for Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, his accomplice in the murder of fourteen-year-old Robert Franks.

Tied to the blooms with white ribbon were two cards. One addressed to Leopold read:

"I'll send you a sheaf after the trial."

The message to Loeb was:

"I think these appropriate in view of the outlook."

Each card was signed "JANE." The florist, Louis Cheronokis, said they were ordered by a pretty young woman, who gave him the impression she was a student at the University of Chicago.

Slayers Found to Be Moonshine Addicts

Chicago, June 4.—A slavish addiction to contraband liquor is another one of the failings developed by Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, confessed slayers of the 14-year-old son of Jacobs Franks, aged millionaire.

Synthetic gins, bootleg whiskey and murderous moonshine are an important part of their daily lives according to officials at the county jail.

When Detective Chief Hughes raided the magnificent Leopold residence in Greenwood avenue he found in a secret closet in Nathan's studio almost every conceivable kind of liquor.

He has repeatedly attempted to get prison attendants to procure gin or whiskey for him.

REICHSTAG OPENS FOR STORMY SESSION

Berlin, June 4.—A momentous session of the Reichstag began today with a whole skyful of black storm clouds looming ahead. Chancellor Marx, instead of formign a new coalition government, decided to go ahead with his old Cabinet, which favors acceptance of the Dawes reparation plan.

Nationalists and Communists plan a bitter attack against the government. Admiral Von Tirpitz, head of the German Navy in war time, and sponsor of Germany's "U-boat warfare," was selected as one of the floor leaders of the Nationalists.

The fate of the Dawes plan will be decided by the present Reichstag.

"I Love You" Loeb Cries Out in His Dreams

(Copyright, 1924, by Universal Service)

Chicago, June 4.—Dreams are the cellmates of young Richard Loeb, the millionaire's son who turned to murder for a new thrill.

Sleeping or waking, fretful fancies kept him company.

"God," he muttered, turning and twisting, "let me sleep. Let me forget."

And often in his restless slumber he cried:

"I love you."

Loeb is glad of the morning only because it ends the night, and dreams.

Franks Boy Debated Against Death Penalty

Chicago, June 4.—Robert Franks, kidnaped and slain schoolboy, on whose account the State is seeking indictments against two minors on two charges punishable by death, two weeks before his death debated against capital punishment.

His team upheld the negative victoriously against a team including his brother Jack in a school debate on "Resolved, That Capital Punishment Is Justified."

"Would it not better serve the community," he asked, "to put weak and mentally deprayed criminals in institutions, where, removed from society, they would no longer be a menace? Punishment should be reformative, never vindicative."

SLAYER OF FRANKS GAVE LECTURE AT HARVARD

Little did bird-life experts from all parts of the country think last October when they gathered at the Agassiz Museum at Harvard University for the annual meeting of the American Ornithological Union, that they were going to listen in breathless attention to the lecture of a murderer.

But, if the confessions of Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold, Jr., of Chicago, mean anything, a murderer of the most fiendish type stood on the platform of the museum and addressed them on the subject of greatest interest to them.

Young Leopold, according to the records of the American Ornithological Union, became an associate member in 1916 when he became greatly interested in bird life.

REMARKABLE FILM

But one Boston ornithologist speaking of the matter stated that Leopold was absolutely unknown to the bird lovers of the country generally, until he appeared in Cambridge and startled them all with 1,000 feet of film showing one of the rarest of American birds, the Kirtland, or pine warbler, feeding her young and told interesting facts about them.

It was a feat that had never been accomplished before. But the pictures were real and the bird men and scientists who came from various parts of the country sat back and gasped at this mere boy who stood there reading his short paper to them.

PAPER WAS FEEBLE

"The pictures were really wonderful to the ornithologist, but the paper was a feeble effort," said the Boston expert. "It was not even valuable enough to be published in the ornithological publications. Leopold just seemed to drop in and drop right out again after his talk and showing of the film. He made no friends here, in fact did not seem to try to do so.

"How he came to show his film at the meeting is something that I have not been able to learn. Perhaps he did his business through the secretary of the union in Washington."

ONLY SIX CONTESTS AMONG REPUBLICANS

Cleveland, June 4.—Lacking the color and sensationalism of other years, the adjudication of contests for seats in the Republican National Convention was begun here today by the National Committee, meeting for the first time since December.

The contests are neither so numerous nor so important this year as at conventions where rival candidates for the presidential nomination backed their respective delegations with vigor and determination. Only six contests were before the committee. They were: Georgia, full delegation; Mississippi, full delegation; District of Columbia, full delegation; South Carolina, two districts; Tennessee, one district, and Arkansas, one district.

ANNE STILLMAN ENGAGED TO MARRY SON OF LATE H. P. DAVISON

ROMANCE WITH BANKER GOES BACK TO CHILDHOOD DAYS

Pleasantville, N. Y., June 4 (Universal)—Mrs. James A. Stillman announced the engagement of her daughter, Miss Anne Stillman, to Henry P. Davison. They will be married in October. Miss Stillman, who is twenty-two, and Mr. Davison, twenty-six, have been acquainted since childhood.

H. P. Davison.

When her father, the former president of the National City Bank, attempted to divorce her mother, Miss Stillman remained with the latter. She is living with her at the Stillman place here. She has been a student at the private school of Mme. Helen Hayen in Paris.

Davison is the son of the late H. P. Davison, wartime head of the Red Cross and a partner in the firm of J. P. Morgan & Co. He left his studies at Yale to enter the Naval Air Service overseas. After his return, Davison re-entered Yale and was graduated in 1920. He studied for a year at Trinity College, Cambridge, before going to work for the Morgan firm.

WINS $50,000 FEE IN DE CORDOVA SUITS

Edgar Weeks and other trustees of the will of Thomas Dana, must according to a decision of Judge Morton of the Superior Court pay to F. Irving Smith, a Boston attorney, $50,000 for services rendered by him in defeating claims of money lenders that under assignments from Julian de Cordova, the sole beneficiary of the estate of his grandfather, Thomas Dana, they were entitled to be paid about $600,000. Mr. Smith on behalf of de Cordova, deceased, contested the demands of the money lenders and instead of receiving $600,000 they were found to be entitled only to $170,000. This reduction left de Cordova a substantial balance out of the $500,000 left by his grandfather.

SAWYER FLAYS WHITEWASHING OF COOK

Declares That He Could Have Proved Charges of Bigotry if Witnesses Had Been Called

Charges of bigotry, inefficiency in office and discrimination against veterans could have been proved against State Auditor Alonzo B. Cook if witnesses had been summoned and placed under oath, Representative Roland D. Sawyer of Ware declared today in the House.

He pleaded with his colleagues not to accept the "white wash" report of the rules committee which investigated the charges filed by him.

"If I had the power of summoning witnesses and placing them under oath," he declared, "I could have proven every charge and you would have been driven from the State House."

Representative Davis R. Edistor, of Boston, in charge of the committee report, said the sub-committee appointed by the rules committee had made a thorough investigation and found no basis for the charges. Representative Edward J. Carty of Framingham, a Democrat, came to Cook's defense, saying that he had sat through the hearings and had heard nothing which would warrant any other report than the committee made.

The committee's report was adopted by a vote of 114 to 42.

Promised to Do as Much for Judge; Case Is Filed

Jeremiah McCarthy of Green street, Boston, appeared today before Judge Wolcott in the East Cambridge District Court.

He arose and said:

"I am a hard working man. I work all of the time. I am a regular eight-hour man, and I'm not such a bad fellow, either. Give me a chance, Judge, and I'll do as much for you some day."

Judge Wolcott said, "All right, McCarthy. We'll place this case on file. You have your chance."

TWO GIRLS DUCK BULLETS IN POLICE CHASE

Finally Wind Up in Back Bay Station When Youths Are Held as Auto Thieves

The thrill that lasts a lifetime fell to the lot of two young South End girls, fourteen and sixteen years old, early today when they were taken for a ride in a stolen automobile, outraced policemen, ducked pistol shots in Weston and finally wound up at the Back Bay police station.

The girls were sent home, and two young men, giving their names as William McLaughlin, eighteen, of Dover street, and Thomas Doyle, seventeen, of Appleton street, placed under arrest at Back Bay station charged with the larceny of the automobile.

Later the youths were held in $3,000 bail each in Municipal Court.

According to the police, Henry Cohen of Hutchins street, Roxbury, left his car standing on Norway street Tuesday night. When he looked for his car it was gone. A description was flashed to surrounding towns. After midnight Patrolman Hayes, in Weston, spotted the car with two young men and two girls in it. He gave chase on a motorcycle. The car increased speed to better than 60 miles an hour and Hayes fired two shots. The car sped away.

In Waltham it was seen. In Concord it was seen, but was going like a racer. Patrolman Flaherty of Back Bay station saw it about 4 o'clock this morning on Commonwealth avenue. He gave chase in an automobile. At the Massachusetts station he caught it.

The girls explained that they had a "whale of a time," especially in Weston when the shots were fired. They said the boys told them to duck, and they did. They also said they did not know the car was stolen.

Ford No. 10,000,000 Flivvers its Way Onto the Road

Detroit, June 4.—Ford Motor Number 10,000,000 completed at the Ford Motor Company this morning and the tenth million model "T" Ford car will leave the assembly line this afternoon, an official announcement says.

The first model "T" car was completed October 1, 1908, and it was seven years later when motor number 1,000,000 was produced. The last million cars, the company announces, were turned out complete in 132 working days.

STORM HOLDS FRENCH AVIATOR AT TAIKU

Tokio, June 4 (A.P.)—Captain Georges Pelletier Doisy, French aviator, hopped off from Taiku, Korea, where he had arrived this morning, for Hiroshima, Japan, at 3 o'clock this afternoon, but was forced to return to Taiku after a short flight.

Captain Doisy

Weather conditions were too stormy for him to venture passage across the Korea Channel, he said on returning.

MUNITIONS AND BOOZE HOLD UP WORLD LINER

Customs Officials Probe Cargo of President Garfield Not on Manifest

The round-the-world liner President Garfield is being detained at the army base pier in South Boston today by customs officials pending an investigation of certain cargo not in the manifest.

This includes a shipment of sixty-nine boxes of cartridges and 113 bottles of booze.

There is a presidential proclamation which prohibits the shipment of arms to Cuba, and as the President Garfield's next stop after New York is at Havana it is believed the cartridges may have been destined to reach that port.

The customs officials also found 2,674 bottles of German lager beer and ale. On the ships stores these were listed as having an alcoholic content of less than one-half of 1 per cent., but analysis proved the kick to be in excess of 1 per cent., which is also actionable.

PERJURY ARREST IN LIQUOR CASE

Judge Parker in Roxbury Court today issued a warrant for the arrest of Edward F. White of Estelle street, Roxbury, charging perjury, after he had testified in connection with cases of violations of the liquor laws, appearing as a witness for his nephew, William J. White of Everett. William White was sentenced to two months in the House of Correction. He appealed.

FRANK TINNEY DECLARES HE WILL FIGHT IMOGENE'S CHARGES

COMEDIAN RIDICULES TALK OF SETTLING CASE

New York, June 4.—For the first time since he appeared in West Side Court Saturday to answer charges of having beaten Imogene Wilson, Frank Tinney consulted his attorneys.

Accompanied by Mrs. Edna Da Vergnet Tinney, his wife, the comedian arrived at the offices of Kendler & Goldstein and was closeted with them for over an hour. Following the conference Monroe Goldstein issued a statement, which said, in part:

"Tinney and his wife have gone over the matter in great detail and we are ready to meet the charges of Miss Wilson in open court next Friday. All rumors that efforts are being made to settle it out of court are not true.

"The rumors that there is a breach in the marital relations of the Tinneys can also be positively denied. Mrs. Tinney will stand by him in this matter and will be in court to testify in his behalf.

IMOGENE BETTER.

The condition of Miss Wilson was said to have shown considerable improvement. For the first time she was permitted to read the scores of letters and telegrams which have been sent by friends, acquaintances and strangers.

The letters range from bitter denunciation to deep sympathy. A postcard arrived signed Frank, which Miss Wilson said was in the handwriting of Tinney. It read:

"Dear Imog: You poor dear. I do love you still. Forgive me. Frank."

When Tinney was asked in the offices of his attorney if he had sent the card he said:

"I most certainly did not. The last time I tried to get in communication with her was Sunday. Since then I have not telephoned her or sent any emissaries to her. She has not one single letter or message from me, as I have never committed myself to paper."

DENOUNCES GIRL.

Another letter was signed "Knights of the Flaming Sword." It is in typewriting and freely underlined with red ink. It was sent from "The N. Y. Chapter of the F. S." and is headed, "Subject: Undesirable Citizen."

After denouncing the girl as having broken up the Tinney home, the letter ends by demanding that she leave the United States, with the $100,000 which you may receive in your damage suit.

Another letter of seven pages of fair different hand is written by a man who said he had "worshipped your charms from afar." According to the letter the man had a wife and three children in the State of Washington and Imogene's beauty had so shackled him that he remained in this city so that he could see her nightly.

His love grove him to distraction and just as he was about to lose his mind while in a hospital he read of how Tinney had shown his own peculiar form of love for her. The tale effected a miraculous cure. He is now on his way back to his wife and children. The letter ends:

"This account of this poor man's recovery will give you a great deal of happiness and may speed you to a speedy and quick recovery."

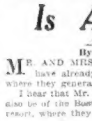
Boston Society Colony At York Harbor Is Assembling, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

MR. AND MRS. FRANCIS H. APPLETON, Jr., have already departed for York Harbor, Me., where they generally while away the Summer days.

I hear that Mr. and Mrs. Gerald A. Bramwell will also be of the Boston colony at the Pine Tree State resort, where they have taken a house for the season. Both Mrs. Appleton, who was Nathalie Gourlie, and Mrs. Bramwell are leading members of the jolly senior supper dance set.



Mrs. Gerald Bramwell

Though the North Shore is the most popular Summer playground for Boston's fashionable world, owing to its proximity to town, the various resorts along the Maine coast attract not a few sojourners during the warm season. Dark Harbor, Bar Harbor, Northeast Harbor and Seal Harbor all have their Boston colonies.

Of the Boston folk who Summer at York Harbor are Dr. and Mrs. Seabury W. Allen of Charles River square, Mr. and Mrs. Moses B. L. Bradford, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Lee, Mrs. Joseph E. Davis of Marlboro street, Mrs. Samuel S. Allen of Beacon street and Miss Mabel W. Henshaw of Craigie Circle, Cambridge.

BOSTON will be represented at the wedding of Miss Elizabeth H. McVicker and Nelson Fell, which takes place today at Morristown, N. J., in St. Peter's Church.

Messrs. Lyman, Edward Guild and Dr. Augustus Thorndike will be of the usher corps. Watson Washburn will be best man for the bridegroom, who hails from Warrentown, Va. The ceremony will be followed by a reception at the McVickar home in Morristown.

The bride is the daughter of William Bard McVickar and the sister of Phyllis Bard McVickar, who will be maid of honor.

THE Longfellow estate in Cambridge will be en fete for the next three days, when a group of prominent folk are staging three performances of "The Piper."

A band of society maids dressed in the quaint garb of Holland are to assume ushers duties, the group including the Misses Emily Close, Elizabeth Cram, Elizabeth Newbegin, Maysabella Sawyer, Anita Ward and Elizabeth Spillman.

Other girls, some of them subdebs, will sell flowers and candy under the direction of Mrs. Richard Russell.

MARY L. BUTTERFIELD; DOROTHY WELD

Miss Mary Louise Butterfield (kneeling) and Miss Dorothy Weld, both debutantes of the past season, will assist at the Italian street fair and fete which society is staging on Saturday at the Webster estate, Chestnut Hill.

Society Notes

MISS ELLEN DALTON has returned to her Chestnut street home following a stay of several months abroad.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Stevenson of Marlboro street are moving shortly to Nahant, where they have spent a number of Summers.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Minot Weld, who are touring the Berkshires, arrived recently at the Greylock Hotel, Williamstown.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Vanderbilt of Louisburg square are at present visiting in New York.

Dr. and Mrs. John C. Phillips of Mt. Vernon street plan to spend the greater part of the Summer at their fishing lodge in Maine.

Mrs. George Cabot Lodge of Washington is domiciled for the season at "Lodge Villa," as her Nahant Summer home is known.

AMERICAN PARTY TO ORGANIZE BY STATES

Columbus, O., June 4.—Organizations will be started in all States immediately and an aggressive national campaign carried on by the American party, it was announced today following selection of Judge Gilbert O. Nations of Washington as the party's presidential standard bearer and adoption of a platform dealing with law enforcement, immigration, outlawry of war and polygamy. Representative Charles H. Randall of Los Angeles was named as running mate to Judge Nations.

Leaders of the party, who are seeking support of the Ku Klux Klan, declared that the American party should not be known synonymously as the Ku Klux Klan party, but that counsels of the "invisible empire" would be needed in the coming campaign.

What Ails Senators? They're Stupefied by Bad Air

Washington, June 4 (I.N.S.)—Before Congress adjourns Saturday, Senator Royal S. Copeland of New York intends to give the Senate the air. Actually, not figuratively.

The Senator served notice today he would press for action on a resolution he has drawn appropriating $10,000 for the capitol architect to buy expert service on ventilating the chamber.

Copeland was formerly health commissioner of New York city.

"What's the matter with the air, Senator" he was asked.

"It's terrible," Copeland answered. "It's full of carbon dioxide all the time. That weakens the resistance and stupefies the mental processes."

PICK STONE TO RUN WITH LA FOLLETTE

Cleveland, O., June 4.—Warren S. Stone, head of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, is being discussed in a quiet way here as the probable running mate of Senator La Follette if the latter runs for President on an independent ticket. Stone is in Cleveland attending the triennial convention of the brotherhood.

The convention was addressed today by Sidney F. Wick, editor of the Manchester Guardian, one of England's strongest labor papers. He outlined the rise of labor in England until it took over the government and pointed out the steps American labor must take if it has similar aspirations.

TEXTILE STRIKE IN DOVER NEARS END

Dover, N. H., June 4 (I.N.S.).—The textile strike which started here last December will probably be brought to an end tonight at a mass meeting. A report of a joint committee of textile workers, who conferred with Superintendent Newton of the mills, will be read. It is understood the workers will act favorably on the report.

BONUS BLANKS DELAYED IN WASHINGTON

But American-Advertiser Will Print Its Own for the Aid of Veterans

YOUR BONUS QUESTIONS.

If there is anything the veteran desires to know about the Federal Bonus Law, or his rights under its provisions, he can find out by sending his questions to the Soldiers' Friend, Boston American - Boston Advertiser, No. 80 Summer Street, Boston. No fee, no charge, no expense of any kind. Glad to be of service.

Word came from Washington today that it will be all of four or five weeks before the government will be prepared to distribute World War bonus applications.

The delay is said to be due to the fact that while Congress passed the bonus law it failed to appropriate the money necessary to carry it into effect.

One of the matters that thus has been delayed is the printing of application blanks.

But the Soldiers' Friend department, set up by the Boston American and the Boston Daily Advertiser in union with other Hearst newspapers from coast to coast, isn't going to wait.

These newspapers are prepared to print application blanks and distribute them to ex-service men without cost.

Proofs of the application blank, as set up and printed by the Soldiers' Friend department of these newspapers, are on their way to Washington for official approval. When approval has been received the printing presses will get busy and applications will be turned out in quantities.

Meanwhile, the Soldiers' Friend department of the Boston American-Boston Daily Advertiser remains open and is at your service. No charge for anything. The Soldiers' Friend is happiest when he is doing something for somebody.

Veterans who desire information regarding the Federal bonus or any other service-man matter may either write or call. The Soldiers' Friend department is on the street floor at No. 80 Summer street.

CHORUS GIRL IS BRIDE OF SHAW HEIR

Hub Society Stirred by Wedding of Newton Youth and Stage Beauty

Unexpected announcement that Gould Shaw, twenty-year-old son of Robert Gould Shaw 2nd, Newton Centre millionaire, has taken as his bride a chorus girl from the "Peggy" company which played Boston a year ago, has the Hub's exclusive social set gasping for breath.

But the announcement of the marriage isn't all that has upset the social set. The immensely wealthy father of the Young Harvard student, as well as his mother, heartily approved the match before it was consummated on May 23, and the young couple are already at housekeeping at Pinehurst, N. C.

The girl who stepped from the chorus of Madge Kennedyq's musical show into the front ranks of Boston's inner social circles, to say nothing of a fortune of millions, was formerly Miss Hilda Burt, daughter of Mrs. E. K. Burt of New York.

The chorus girl was on her first tour when the "Peggy" company played Boston. The young Harvard student, scion of one of New England's leading families, was smitten forthwith.

He managed to be presented to the chorus girl, and after that everything led rapidly in the general direction of orange blossoms, the altar and wedding bells.

It is reported that young Shaw took the chorus girl to the magnificent estate of his parents, Boulder Farm.

The father took one look at his son's companion.

"Go to it, I'm backing you," was the paternal word, and the young student lost no time.

The father had charge of the construction of the home for the couple at Pinehurst. The wedding ceremony, a quiet affair, was performed at Carthage, N. C., on Friday, May 23. The wedding was kept secret but when news of it gradually leaked out.

Another Jap Kills Self for "Insult to His Race"

Tokio, June 4 (A.P.).—Provincial evcorrespondents of the vernacular newspapers report four cases of suicide carried out in emulation of the Japanese who slew himself near the ruins of the old American embassy building May 31, in protest against American exclusion of Japanese immigrants.

In at least three cases, however, the attributed motive of anti-Americanism is unsubstantiated.

The cases are reported from Choshi, Hamamatsu, Odawara and Toyamaghara. In the last named case the police said they found a letter on the body addressed to Cyrus E. Woods, retiring American ambassador. It mentioned the exclusion measure as a "racial insult" and referring to the "indomitable Japanese spirit."

COMMITTEE IS DEFIED BY DAUGHERTY

Former Attorney-General Refuses to Appear as Witness When Hearing Is Resumed

St. Louis, June 4.—Former Attorney-General Daugherty "did not care to lay himself open to the rigorous examination that would have awaited him," Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana asserted here today in commenting on Daugherty's refusal to appear before the Senate investigating committee, of which Wheeler is a member.

Washington, June 4.—Former Attorney-General Harry M. Daugherty today defied the Wheeler-Brookhart committee to compel him to testify in the Senate investigation of his administration.

Daugherty told the committee he would neither testify as a witness nor be represented further by counsel.

The committee had asked the former Attorney-General to take the witness stand on Friday, as the last witness before a preliminary report is submitted to the Senate. No formal subpoena had been issued for him, however, and committee members had indicated they would take no steps to compel his appearance.

Paul Howland, attorney for Daugherty, read the committee a statement by his client, declaring that "certain members of the committee had made a desperate attempt to "blacken" his reputation and defying that he had "profited in any illegal, corrupt or unethical way" from his tenure of office.

CHARGES CONSPIRACY.

Daugherty's statement also declared the Federal Court in Ohio, in the litigation between the committee and Mal S. Daugherty, had held the committee to be engaged in an "illegal proceeding." He therefore gave notice that his lawyers would withdraw.

Chairman Brookhart declared the statement has a "reflection" on the committee and said that he intended to reply before letting matters go further.

"We have proved the existence of a criminal conspiracy in Mr. Daugherty's household," Senator Brookhart said. "We have proved that the tax returns of Mr. Daugherty when he took office showed that he had no money, but that before he left office he had $75,000 on deposit in his brother's bank."

The chairman added that under the circumstances he would ask the committee to proceed with its plan of making a partial report, and then adjourn "for some time." It is a part of the plan to resume sessions, however, at some date late in the summer.

SCORES DAUGHERTY.

Chairman Brookhart referred to the indictment of Senator Wheeler, the committee prosecutor, as a "frameup" and said Mr. Daugherty had sought to attack wheeler instead of defending himself.

Senator Moses, Republican, New Hampshire, said he wanted to express "some dissent" from the chairman and Mr. Howland with George E. Chamberlain, his associate, then left the committee room.

TIRED OF DRUDGERY IN BOARDING HOUSE

MARION PIERCE

Aroused over insinuations about her second "disappearance," pretty Brookline girl reveals reasons which impelled her to leave the home of her foster parents and seek to carve her way to fortune. She says that a boarding house is a "poor jimmy with which to attempt to pry off the lid of exclusive Boston society." Working as a scullery maid from 6 in the morning to mid night is not Miss Pierce's conception of a progressive means to get a head in the world. She will go to work, she says, in a department st ore and will also learn dressmaking.

MARION PIERCE ENDS STORY OF 'HEIRESS'

Girl Found in Brookline Shatters Myth and Says She's "Boarding House Slave"

Miss Marion Pierce, twenty-three-year-old Brookline girl who disappeared last February from the home of her foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Pierce at No. 43 Park street, Brookline, has herself shattered the romantic glamor built up about her.

Miss Pierce, in her own story, declares:

She is not an heiress.

The Pierce home in Brookline is not an "exclusive mansion," but a boarding house.

She was not surrounded with luxury in the home of her foster parents, but was little more than a scullery maid, working from 6:00 in the morning until midnight, without compensation.

RESENTS INSINUATIONS.

Several days ago when Dennis McCarthy, janitor at the Pierce house, suddenly disappeared, the girl's name was linked with that of the janitor. The fact that the girl dropped out of view last Winter and later was found at a Salem home, the head of which is a friend of the ex-janitor's, was the basis for linking the girl's name with that of her foster parents' employe. These insinuations are vigorously denied by the girl.

Miss Pierce was found by an American reporter at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Rankin, in Brookline. The girl has been living there for several weeks.

"I'll tell the whole inside story of my life. They've told enough stuff about me and now I'll talk" she declared.

"This talk about the Pierces being worth lots of money and me being a heiress is bunk.

ADOPTED BY PIERCES.

"The Pierces adopted me when I was 16 years of age. When I was 20 the Pierces took the house at No. 1458 Beacon street, Brookline. They planned a high class boarding house. They purchased the property in my name for $22,000 and paid $1,000 down on it. Everything was in my name.

"We moved in and from the start I was the goat. I ran the house, met the notes at the bank, ran the table and virtually was in everything. At the end of a year the place was sold for what the Pierces put into it—$1,000. In the meantime, I had contracted debts of $1,000 and I'm paying them off now. After we got out of that place I opened a small tea room in Rockport—paid off $700 of the debts and still owe $300.

"Then they opened another boarding house at No. 165 Irving street. It was a repetition of the same thing. When this place was sold the Pierces took the place at No. 43 Park street. That was last September.

KEPT ON JUMP

"At the Park street place I was in charge. I had charge of cooking and preparing the meals—I had to see the house was kept clean. I looked after the bills and when boarders left I had to hunt up new ones to take their places. It was nothing but a slave—never went out at nights—never went to a movie or a dance. If we didn't come out even at the end of the week it was up to me to see that we made it up by skimping the next week. It was a fine life.

"In February I decided to chuck the whole business. I didn't even have enough clothes to fill a suitcase when I left. I had just suffered a nervous breakdown and I went to the Rankin home in Brookline.

WAS DEAD BROKE.

"I told the Rankins I was dead broke but knew of a job in a doctor's office in Salem. They gave me some money. I went to Salem found the job filled and then went to visit the Clapper family for several days. I had known the Clappers for some time.

"Talk about me being friendly with McCarthy, the janitor, is all untruths. McCarthy is twice my age and a married man. He's gone, I don't know where, and I don't care. I am sick of the whole business.

"I'm going to work in a Boston department store, and I'm going to learn dressmaking on the side.

"I'm no heiress, but I am a respectable girl, and I'm going to work for my own living, as I have always done.

Would Cost $300,000 for U. S. to Publish Hobson's Article

Washington, June 4.—The expense embodied in casual approval of requests for "leave to print as a Senate document" was brought home sharply to the Senate today by George H. Carter, the public printer.

He informed Chairman Moses of the printing committee it would cost $350,000 to comply with a suggestion of Senator Capper of Kansas for circulation of 50,000,000 copies of an article by Richmond P. Hobson on "The Perils of Narcotics."

The public printer declared the paper would cost $183,771 and envelopes $117,539, while the mechanical work would tie up a press for 250 days.

SOLD 'BODY BUILDER'; APPEALS $250 FINE

Herbert C. Penny, No. 22 Carenove street, South End, was found guilty today in municipal court of practicing medicine without a license. He was fined $250 and appealed. According to the police and a witness, Penny placed his hand on the forhead of a patient who went to him complaining of not feeling well. There he is alleged to have sold the patient a bottle of "body builder," a medicine he prepares. Penny contended that he had a right to sell medicines he makes himself.

MANCHESTER CUTS FIRE DEPARTMENT

Manchester, N. H., June 4 (U.N.S.).—As a result of the appropriation made by this city to the fire department, a reduction will be made in the number of fire stations and firemen. Three stations will be closed and three companies of firemen laid off indefinitely June 9. Two of the stations are in the residential sections and another in the shoe district.

WOMAN TO ADDRESS G. O. P. CONVENTION

Cleveland, June 4 (A.P.).—Mrs. Florence Porter of Pasadena, Calif., will be among the four or five delegates who will make addresses seconding the nomination of President Coolidge at the Republican National Convention here next week. Others will include former Governor Stickney of Vermont, and Dr. George E. Cannon of New Jersey.

UNION COLLEGE HEAD SCORES DR. BUTLER

Durham, N. C., June 4.—Dr. Charles Alexander Richmond, president of Union College, Schenectady, N. Y., today attacked Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler's stand on the Prohibition question in an address at the Commencement Exercises of Trinity College here.

"To say that the Eighteenth Amendment has been imposed on the majority by a fanatical block is simply silly," he declared. "To keep telling people the Prohibition Law is an infringement of their liberties is only another way of advising them to break the law."

BOY AND SWEETHEART SHOT IN BRONX PARK

New York, June 4.—Edward F. Litta, seventeen, and Fannie Virgillio, his sexteen-year-old sweet heart, are today in a critical condition from gunshot wounds inflicted by a man who crept up on the couple in Bronk Park Botanical Gardens, and, producing a pistol, ordered Litta to "beat it." The boy, disregarding the menacing pistol, seized the stranger. There was a struggle, then the noise of pistol shots and Litta fell with bullets in his leg and back. Fannie toppled to the grass, shot through the thigh. Their assailant escaped.

PAPERS WERE STOLEN, SAID COAKLEY

Testimony in Tufts Case Also Shows Defendant Received $5000 Fee

Coakley, it was brought out in the reading, received $5,000 as a fee in the Stearns matter.

SPLIT PROPERTY

District Attorney Reading read testimony given by Coakley in the Supreme Court relating to the Stearns case. Coakley testified that an draw up a suit against Captain Stearns on grounds of cruel and abusive treatment to supersede the one he had originally drawn up on infidelity charges.

The divorce was granted on the cruel and abusive grounds, he said.

Asked by Attorney Fletcher Ranney, cross-examining, if he could produce any of the Stearns papers, Coakley replied that all he had was a motion made out by Mrs. Stearns, in which she named a co-respondent as an amendment to her original divorce charge.

Coakley testified that he and Henry Fuller, trustee of Stearns' father's will, had agreed on a financial settlement, whereby Stearns would keep half his property and the wife and daughter split the other half.

When the divorce was granted, however, in November, 1918, a bitter dispute arose about the alimony settlement and finally, one year later, it was arranged that Mrs. Stearns should get $20,000 outright.

Asked how much he got as fees, Coakley replied that he kept out $8,700, but later turned $3,700 over to Mrs. Stearns.

Q.—Was not the arrangement originally that your fee should be one-third of the amount you secured as alimony? A.—Yes. I did not charge all that I would like to have charged Mrs. Stearns.

Q.—Your share would have been one-third of $20,000? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did Nathan Tufts appear at all in this matter? A.—No.

Q.—Did you turn any of the money over to him? A.—No.

PAPERS STOLEN

Under examination by Special Assistant Attorney General Henry F. Hurlburt, Coakley testified that he learned later that the papers in the Stearns case were stolen from his office along with other papers.

Q.—Did you go to Long Island to see Mrs. Stearns? A.—Yes.

Q.—Before the deposition was taken? A.—Yes. A week before.

Q.—Did you show her any papers? A.—Yes I showed her the specifications.

Q.—Were those the specifications filed by the Attorney-General? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you show her any other papers? A.—Yes the motion to amend the divorce charge when we filled in the name of the corespondent.

Q.—Wasn't that paper stolen with the others? A.—No, I found that in the drawer of my desk.

Q.—How long before you went to Long Island. A.—About eight months to a year before.

Q.—Did you tell Mrs. Stearns that some of your papers had been stolen? A.—I did.

Q.—Did you tell her some letters had been stolen? A.—Yes.

KEPT UP SEARCH

Q.—Did you tell her what papers and letters had been stolen? A.—No, and I couldn't tell you now.

Q.—Were the reports of the detectives stolen, too? A.—If in the voucher they were.

Q.—Well, were they in the voucher? A.—I don't know.

Q.—Did you ever search for the detective's report? A.—Yes. I never found it.

Q.—When did you search for it? A.—At the Cabot trial.

Q.—Did you ever talk with Morgan about the Stearns divorce case? A.—No.

Q.—How many times did you see Detective Morgan after you assigned him to the case. A.—About a dozen times.

Q.—And the Stearns case was never mentioned. A.—No.

Q.—Did you know where the couple was caught? A.—No.

Q.—Have you got any memoranda whatever in connection with the Stearns case? A.—No.

Q.—Did Mrs. Stearns ever tell you that she had been to see Mr. Tufts? A.—No.

Q.—Did she ever give you any security? A.—She gave me a bond for $100.

Q.—What did you do with it? A.—Gave it to one of my babies, I think.

DIDN'T KNOW HER

Q.—Were you in the habit of drawing large sums of money from your safety deposit vault? A.—No.

Q.—But you have done it. A.—Yes, on occasions.

Q.—Did Mrs. Stearns ever mention Mrs. Brown? A.—No.

Q.—Didn't she mention Mrs. Brown as having gone to see Tufts with her? A.—No.

Q.—Did she ever mention Mrs. Holmes? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you secure Mrs. Stearns' signature on a divorce charge based on statutory grounds before you saw Justice Pube Fuller? A.—I did.

Coakley further testified that the woman in the Stearns case was Miss Penn, and denied that he had ever seen her or that he had ever known a girl named Miss Pennington. He said he had never heard of Miss Pennington.

He admitted he had asked for a one-half share of the Stearns estate and explained that he meant by this what Mr. Fuller had agreed to, giving Captain Stearns one-half and dividing the other half between Mrs. Stearns and the daughter.

He admitted using the name of General Weaver, the daughter's grandfather, in one of the conversations with Fuller.

LOAN TO GORDON

Coakley testified that it was suggested to him that if Mrs. Stearns brought suit for divorce on the grounds of infidelity Captain Stearns would consent on grounds of immorality on her part.

He then testified that in connection with the Stearns case and the Mickelson case he had never paid any money to Tufts. He was asked if he would turn over his checkbook, but he objected because he believed if he did the books would get into the hands of the Watch and Ward Society.

He said the Watch and Ward Society had been making unfair, bitter, lying attacks on him for four years.

Coakley finally consented to turn over books for 1917.

The testimony then brought out that Daniel H. Sugrue, an employe of Coakley's for over twenty years, had loaned $5,000 or $6,000 at one time to Police Captain Herbert Gordon of Cambridge. Coakley denied he had any part in the loan.

A photograph of a young woman, identified as that of Mrs. P. M. Pennington, was offered in evidence in connection with the Stearns divorce case.

The picture was shown to Francis J. McTigue, real estate broker of Cambridge and Boston.

McTigue was called to the stand, after District Attorney Reading finished reading Coakley's testimony.

Q.—Did you rent a suite in Dane Hall Apartments to a Mrs. P. M. Pennington? A.—Yes.

OVER A YEAR

Q.—Where was that? A.—At No. 28 School street.

Q.—When did you meet Mrs. Pennington? A.—In February, 1918.

Q.—Did she sign this lease? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you witness her sign it? A.—Yes.

McTigue testified Mrs. Pennington lived there from March 1, 1918, to the latter part of June, 1919, and that he saw her many times in the apartment and building.

McTigue was not cross-examined. District Attorney Reading then produced papers, from which he read:

"Case No. 12,309. Divorce Division of the Superior Court, Suffolk, 1917. Libel of Mabel Lula Litchfield, libellant, vs. Eben Stanley Litchfield, libelee." The paper was introduced.

BATTLE ABUSE OF SACRAMENTAL WINES

Chicago, June 4.—The Independent Order of B'Nai B'rith has launched a war against the abuse of sacramental wine privileges under the Volstead Act, Adolf Kraus, president of the organization, announced today. Since the enactment of the prohibition law, it has been learned that the allowance of ten gallons per year for each person of a religious faith was far in excess of actual requirements, he asserted.

HOW TAX REDUCTION OPERATES

AMOUNT OF TAX	PAID MARCH 15	DUE JUNE 15 1/4 OF TAX	DUE SEPT. 15 1/4 OF TAX	DUE DEC. 15 REMAINDER	REFUND	TO PAY IN FULL JUNE 15

The change resulting from the new income tax law, as affecting a person whose tax to be paid this year totaled $100, is shown in thildiagram. With this as a basis the taxpayer can figure what return is due from the government. If full payment of tax was made March 15, or what payments will be due on succeeding instalment dates, provide advantage was taken of the government's partial payment plan.

ELOPING WIFE RECONCILED IN COURTROOM

South Boston Man Forgives Woman Arrested While Starving

Benjamin Draper and wife, Theresa, twenty, of No. 16 Champney street, South Boston, were reconciled in the New York Tombs Court, and today were back home in South Boston with their eighteen months old baby.

The young woman and a school day friend, Frank Greenleaf, of Boston, walked into a New York police station May 29, last, with the baby boy. They said they were stranded. Mrs. Draper and Greenleaf were charged with vagrancy, and the baby was turned over to the Children's Society.

In Tombs Court Mrs. Draper and Greenleaf pleaded guilty to running away from Boston together. Draper had come here to take his wife and child home, and she was willing to return.

Mrs. Draper and Greenleaf were given suspended sentences.

CLAIMS SHARE IN $66,000,000 ESTATE

Providence, June 4.—Frank Drake Harris of No. 78 Fountain street, will file a claim to a share in the $66,000,000 estate of Sir Francis Drake, from whom he says he is descended. Harris' contention is based on the fact that either Sir Francis or his brother, John Drake, married Elizabeth Corey of Quonset, R. I., his maternal great-great-grandmother.

COURTHOUSE SIGHT IN DORCHESTER

The city of Boston purchased from the heirs of Edward M. Curran land and building at Melville avenue and Washington street, Dorchester, as a site for the new Dorchester courthouse for $65,250. Curran before his death was well known in the hotel business. The new courthouse, for which bids will soon be asked for, will cost $250,000.

CHARLES ST. JAIL HAS NO HOMICIDE INMATE

PHONE CO.'S BIG PAYMENT QUESTIONED

City Counsel and Company's Lawyer in Lively Tilt Over $2,000,000 Contract

Charles S. Pierce, general counsel of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company, told the public utilities commission today that the commission has no authority over a contract whereby the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company pays $2,000,000 a year to the American Telephone & Telegraph Company.

The statement, made at a public hearing at the State House, brought on a lively tilt between Pierce and E. Mark Sullivan, corporation counsel for the city of Boston.

Pierce quoted a decision of the United States Supreme Court which held that where such contracts were made in good faith State commissions have no power to interfere.

DEMOCRATS TO NAME WALSH AS CHAIRMAN

Washington, June 4.—Strong indications were apparent in Democratic circles here today that Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana probably would be selected as temporary chairman of the party's national convention in New York.

——It may be a Chrysler or it may be a Ford. But, no matter which it is, the used car you want has been driven by someone you don't know and perhaps will never meet.

Every used car is an intricate assembly of metal parts, and these parts are subject to wear. How much they are worn none but an expert can determine, and then only after a careful inspection.

The Automobile experts employed by the Boston American examine all the vital parts where wear affects the serviceability of a car. They report their findings on the Inspected-Insured blue certificate.

When you purchase a used car bearing this certificate on the windshield, you are assured of getting a used car whose condition is as represented.

Why They're Using
Joint-Ease for Burning Feet

Just because it is now known that burning, sore, aching, swollen feet are caused by trouble in the many joints in the foot and Joint-Ease soaks right in and gets to the seat of the trouble—the cartilage and ligaments of the joints.

And to think that for generations we have been powdering and soaking our feet. Thinking the trouble was only skin deep—an old-fashioned idea.

Well, better late than never—just stop the powdering and medical bathing and other foolishness for three days and just rub on Joint-Ease—and remember when Joint-Ease gets in foot agony and burning get out—quick—60 cents a tube.

All druggists sell lots of Joint-Ease.

PEGGY JOYCE HAS NO. 4 WORKING FOR HER

'VILLAGE BARBER'S' GIRL IS A COUNTESS NOW

By CORINNE RICH

New York, June 4 (Universal).—Peggy Hopkins Joyce, actress and the "village" barber's daughter, has another husband. He's No. 4.

She has been Countess Costa Morner of Moreland since Monday afternoon. It happened in the Swedish Lutheran Church in Atlantic City, for the Count is a Swede and he followed Peggy from Chicago where he had fallen in love with her.

"Never again," declared Peggy, when J. Stanley Joyce, millionaire lumberman of Chicago, divorced her.

Then Peggy tried making her living—and got tired.

"I'd like to find somebody to work for me," she said not long ago.

The Count came along. Now he is working for her literally, being active head of a newly organized toothpaste concern in Chicago. The strange thing is, he isn't a millionaire.

WANTS TO BE HAPPY.

"I loved my freedom. But now I'm married for the last time and I'm going to devote the rest of my life to being happy," she is said to have declared right after the ceremony.

The girl who rose from obscurity to such a place in the sun that she thought only in the language of millions, costly gems, motor cars, adulation and enough love to kill any ordinary human, is strangely enough, in this last romance played the role of Priscilla.

The Count was John Alden, pressing the claims of a friend who comes of the same Swedish blue blood. With importunities on behalf of this Miles Standish, he often visited Peggy's dressing-room in the Chicago theatre where she was playing in a musical revue. Then he spoke for himself and won.

Peggy Joyce's heart history, if translated into terms of colors, would be crimson, orange, grass green, or sapphire blue. It would be conspicuously minus the delicate pastel shades. In fact, it is too vivid to read like fiction. Greatly abbreviated that history goes something like this:

Marguerite Upton, which is Peggy's Bible-inscribed name, was born about thirty years ago in a tiny Virginia town, the daughter of the village barber. She was possessed of beauty, brains and pep. The pep was by no means the least of the three.

Before she was twenty she jumped from the manipulation of a telephone switchboard, which really was dull work, into matrimony with Everett A. Archibald of Denver. This first spouse is variously described as a "traveling salesman" and as the pace-setter of the three millionaires.

AS MANICURE.

Their romance was not long lived. Matrimony placed a heavy finger on pretty Peggy. Back in her home State she manicured the aristocratic nails of the men patrons of a Richmond hotel. Then in Washington she met and married Philbrook Hopkins, prominent lawyer of the capital and worth goodness knows how many millions.

But jewels and limousines couldn't detain the elusive Peggy long. Fortune's will-o'-the-wisp brought her to New York and the stage—the chorus and the movies. Then J. Stanley Joyce, multi-millionaire lumberman from Chicago, came along. He made Peggy "Mrs. Joyce."

The actress' subsequent history is a tangle of divorce, suicides, riches and amours, a conglomeration that brought her world-wide notoriety.

MANY CORESPONDENTS.

When Stanley Joyce obtained his divorce in 1921, after three hectic months of married life with Peggy, he named as co-respondents the following: Henri Letellier, millionaire publisher, sportsman and aesthete of Paris; Barton French, called "the poor little rich New Yorker"; E. James, said to have been a confidence man; Maurice, the dancer, Evan Spaulding of Boston, Prince Aleu of Albania, sometimes called "the Prince without a country," and former husband of Edith Kelly Gould; Joe Pani, a keeper of restaurants in New York, and an unnamed lieutenant, who killed himself after having been financially ruined by the fascinating actress.

But, besides these, there were many other men here and abroad who fell under Peggy's wistful charms. Outstanding among these was Pierre Merillon, a young and wealthy Frenchman, the son of a banker, who chased the girl over the continent.

CHILEAN MILLIONAIRE.

And Guillermo Errazuriz, the good-looking millionaire from Chili, brother of Mrs. Jack De Saulles, who shot her husband. Errazuriz was madly in love with Peggy and she with him, so the story goes; but they could not marry because the Chilean was already inconveniently wedded.

They [illegible] and their romance [illegible] the meantime Errazuriz demanded that Peggy stop encouraging the attentions of Henri Letellier. Peggy refused.

"He is the only man I ever loved," said Peggy.

The girl was, as a result, requested to leave France for twenty years, through the influence of the Chilean legation and Errazuriz' brother, it is said.

KISSED BY CHAPLIN.

But these are not all the names that have been connected with Peggy's admirers. There was Prince Yavolski of Russia, the Spanish Duke De Dureal, to say nothing of Lou Tellegen, former husband of Geraldine Farrar, and Willard Mack, the playwright and actor, both of whom declared they would marry her. And she kept quite well

PEGGY HOPKINS JOYCE

Advices announce that the much married and divorced Peggy Hopkins Joyce has taken to herself another husband, the latest being Count Gorsta Morner, a 29-year-old member of the Swedish nobility. The ceremony, it is stated, took place at Atlantic City, and the couple are honeymooning in New York City.

Count Morner is the reputed head of a new concern manufacturing tooth paste at Highland Park, Ill.

Count Salm, husband of the forty-million-dollar Millicent Rogers. Besides that, she once received a kiss from Charlie Chaplin.

After Stanley Joyce had paid something like $1,000,000 for his legal freedom, Peggy made all sorts of wild statements about matrimony.

"Marry again? I'd rather go in a convent for life than again become the slave of some man's selfishness.

"The next man I marry will be a poor man and an American. Girls, don't marry wealth and be merely playthings. Don't let diamonds dazzle you. Love in a palace is a myth."

William Jennings Bryan, candidate for Delegate at Large to the National Convention was given a record vote in several counties.

She Keeps It Bobbed Despite Whiskers of Husband

Chicago, June 4.—When Pilot Randolph Gilham Page of the Air Mail Service gets aboard his ship he looks like a bewhiskered patriarch. But Mrs. Randolph Gilham Page doesn't object. She is not going to let her hair grow just because Randolph has taken such a silly way of expressing his prejudice against shingles.

"We'll just see what happens when hot weather comes," she said, defiantly. "After he's carried a mattress around on his chin through the Summer he'll understand how I felt before I got my bob."

The debate began when Mrs. Page announced she was going to get a shingle.

"If you do," said her husband, "I'll let my beard grow."

"Well, your face is yours, my dear," she retorted. "Spite it if you must."

So she did, and he did.

SHENANDOAH IS SAFE; LOST FOR TIME IN FOG

Navy's "Queen of the Air" Ends 1000-Mile Flight Over Three States in 24 Hours

Lakehurst, N. J., June 4.—The Shenandoah, giant navy dirigible broke through a heavy bank of fog this morning and returned to its base almost 24 hours after beginning a 1,000-mile trip over three States during which it crossed the Canadian border at Niagara Falls. During the last few hours of the cruise the dirigible hovered in a blinding fog over its home port, guided only by radio messages and sirens on the field.

Commander Zachary Lansdowne, U. S. N., commanded the ship on its first important cruise since making away from its mooring mast early in the year, and the only one without Captain Anton Heinen, the German Zeppelin expert, as the pilot of its flights.

The flight was over New Jersey cities from Lakehurst to New York, then up the Hudson to Albany, westward to Buffalo and Niagara Falls, and back over Pennsylvania to Binghamton, followed by a rise above the fog bank hanging over the New Jersey coast.

The ships was commended for being at home and a half early this morning when radio messages were received from her and the naval station radio operator obtained no answer to his signals.

2 DYING, 5 MORE HURT IN AUTO CRASHES

North Weymouth and Randolph Men Badly Injured; 3 Girls Among Victims

Seven persons were injured in three motor Boston automobile accidents today. Two of them are dying.

The injured are: Edith Compere of No. 192 Westville street, Dorchester; Lloyd Hazel, twenty-two; Sybil Fenlessen, eight, and Marjorie Fenlessen, all of the same address; Robert Meffen, East Weymouth; Arthur Moe, North Weymouth, and George W. Kuhn, Randolph.

Meffen and Moe were injured when a motorcycle on which they were riding collided with an automobile at Hingham. Meffen is dying at the Weymouth hospital. He has fractured skull, fractured leg and other injuries.

Kuhn is dying at Brockton hospital. He received a fractured skull when thrown from an automobile at Randolph while on his way to work in Boston. The auto crashed into a tree.

The other injured persons received their injuries in a collision with an automobile at Commonwealth avenue and Bourne street, near Norumbega Park. The driver of the other car, Sinnis J. Nelson of Providence, was arrested on a charge of drunkenness and driving while under the influence of liquor.

CONGRESS ANTI-CHILD LABOR VOTE LAUDED

Hearst Papers Praised in Washington for Fight Against Exploiters

Washington, June 4 (Universal)—Passage of the proposed amendment to the constitution which will enable Congress to prohibit child labor and bring to an end exploitation of the lives of little children by industrial interests, was hailed as one of the most commendatory acts of Congress at this session.

Cabinet officers, government officials, senators and representatives expressed gratification at the passage of the amendment, accompanied by strong commendation of the Hearst newspapers for the long fight they have carried on to stamp out child labor.

HEARST PAPERS' FIGHT.

Since the first time the Supreme Court rejected child labor legislation as unconstitutional, the Hearst papers have consistently kept up the fight until the present victory was achieved.

In an effort to circumvent the decision of the Supreme Court, advocates of anti-child labor legislation succeeded in introducing into the tax bill of 1921 a clause providing for the levy of a heavy tax on all products of child labor.

This attempt also failed to elude the Supreme Court, which then, for the third time, handed down an adverse opinion. After this decision was rendered, supporters of the measure decided the end could be cured only by a Constitutional amendment.

OPPOSED BY EXPLOITERS.

In 1922 the resolution for the amendment was introduced in Congress and favorably reported by the committees of both houses, but could not be put through before adjournment. With the opening of Congress in 1923 it was again brought forward.

The proposed amendment was fought by exploiters of child labor throughout the country and by those branches of organized industry which have profited richly in the past through the labor of little children.

To their support these opponents of this humanitarian legislation drew partisans of the old doctrine of "states' rights" with their cry that enactment of such a measure would be an unwarranted interference by the federal government with the long cherished rights of the individual states.

DEMANDED SQUARE DEAL.

Against these combined forces in opposition to the amendment the Hearst papers threw all their strength, by editorials, cartoons and news articles, setting forth the demand and the necessity for a square deal for the child.

By means of this long, unceasing campaign to release millions of free born American children from the equivalent of slavery, the amendment has at last been passed by both houses of Congress.

It must now go to the states for ratification. It is the opinion of many officials here that the victory in Congress points to a similar victory in the state legislatures, of which the ratification of two-thirds will be necessary to make the amendment part of the Constitution.

Hearst's Fight Against "Juggernaut" Commended

BY SEC. OF LABOR J. J. DAVIS

Anyone who champions the cause of a little child is doing God's work; for this reason Mr. Hearst is to be commended for the part he has taken in the fight against child labor.

In this case, as in others, Mr. Hearst has shown that he is always the friend and champion of the poor and oppressed.

The adoption by the Congress of the joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution for the Federal control of child labor marks the beginning of the end of the system which has condemned millions of American boys and girls to premature age and death beneath the wheels of the juggernaut of false industrial exploitation.

It is a tremendous step forward in our civilization. It will make for a better future America.

It is to be hoped, however, that legislation under this amendment will not inadvertently swing the pendulum too far in the opposite direction. Every boy who is strong and able should know how to work at the age of eighteen. Unless he does know how to work then, he will be handicapped for the remainder of his life.

I am a strong believer in the wisdom of training the American youth in the useful trades and crafts. I hope that no legislation enacted in the future under the child labor amendment will interfere with trade education, or with the instruction of our youth in agriculture."

FOUGHT FOR HER SON'S WEDDING MONEY

SCENE OF ALLEGED ROBBERY

View of No. 7 Waltham street, South End, the arrow pointing to room where Mrs. O'Connell says she was attacked by two bobbed-hair bandits and a masked man, who took $380 saved by her son, John Donaghue for his wedding trip. Inset is Donaghue, and above is Miss Elizabeth Holland of Roxbury, who is to marry Donaghue in a few days. She says Mrs. O'Connell's story "looks strange to her."

BRIDE-TO-BE IS SKEPTICAL OF ROBBERY

Sniffs at Story of Her Future Mother-in-Law That Son's Wedding Money Was Stolen

Despite the disappearance of the marital nest-egg, the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Holland of No. 13 Blue Hill avenue, Roxbury, and John Donaghue of No. 7 Waltham street, South End, will take place, as scheduled, on June 15.

Miss Holland herself is authority for this statement, and when she was asked concerning the alleged holdup yesterday of her mother-in-law-elect, Mrs. Elizabeth O'Connell, she merely sniffed.

She would not enlarge upon that eloquent sniff, beyond saying:

"It looks rather strange to me."

Miss Holland did not deny that Mrs. O'Connell, John's mother, had never looked with much favor upon the match.

The $380 which Mrs. O'Connell claims was taken from her by two bobbed-hair girls and a masked man was to have financed the wedding trip.

It had been placed in care of Mrs. O'Connell, who reported to the police that the money had been stolen.

Mrs. O'Connell said that a girl had called in the morning and asked for a camera belonging to Miss Holland. According to her story, Mrs. O'Connell went into another room for the camera, and when she returned she found the trio there. They demanded money, and when she said she had none, attacked her. She fainted, and when she recovered an hour later, she says, she found the $380 gone, and telephoned the police.

ANTI-SALOONERS ACCUSE WET LEAGUE

The Massachusetts Anti-Saloon League today filed with the Secretary of State a formal complaint against the Constitutional Liberties League.

The Anti-Salooners charge the other league has made an appeal for contributions for political purposes in advance of filing a "political committee" as required by law.

The complaint was signed by W. M. Forgrave, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League. Secretary of State Cook referred the matter to the attorney general.

ELK HEADLIGHTS TO BOOM BOSTON MEET

Special "Elk headlights" designed to slip on over the regular headlights of any automobile will be distributed throughout the United States in the next few days extending an invitation to all Elks to attend the big convention to be held in Boston in July. The new headlight is made of a transparent composition on which in red ink is the figure of an Elk's head and the words "Elks Come to Boston, July 6 to 12." They will be sent to all Elks' lodges in the country.

UNSKILLED LABOR DEMAND FALLS OFF

Calls for laborers and skilled workers fell off from six to ten per cent., at the office of the Massachusetts Public Employment Office, No. 23 Pearl street, during the month of May, according to the report issued today. Carpenters, painters, electricians and plasterers were in demand, but unskilled labor fell off badly. There was a fair demand for farm hands.

Harvard Thespians Join Yale Players in N. E. Tour

Members of the Harvard Dramatic Club have joined with a Yale graduate in the organization of a traveling company which will play one-night stands through the towns and villages of New England during the Summer. They style themselves "The Jitney Players."

By day their truck will rattle over the roads in the manner of a moving van. At night, the sides will be let down and supported on legs, providing a stage twenty-five feet square. Over this platform a canvas roof will be stretched. Tents at the side will provide dressing rooms.

The troupe was organized by Bushnell Cheney, Yale, '21. Among the Harvard men who have joined the Jitney Players are R. C. Burrell, D. W. Hallett, '24; Ross Wilkins, '24, and J. J. Collier, '24.

R. S. Aldrich, Harvard, '25, will be the business manager.

WIFE TAKES POISON TABLETS ON BRIDGE

Mrs. Florence Hooks, 29, of No. 43 Harvard street, Charlestown, wife of a chief water tender on the U. S. S. Sharkey, endeavored to commit suicide by swallowing bichloride of mercury tablets while walking across the Charlestown bridge.

The woman approached a naval officer and told him she had taken poison. The officer took the bottle of tablets from her hand and threw it into the river. He then called the police.

She refused to tell why she attempted suicide. Her husband's boat is now in the Navy Yard.

FEDERAL ENGRAVING PLANT NOT IN FIRE

The plant of the Federal Engraving Company, No. 143 Federal street, was not destroyed by flames Monday, as was stated inadvertantly in an early edition of the Boston American. The fire occurred at No. 129 Congress street. Through error the Federal Engraving Company was named as the concern at that address.

FIERY CROSS NEAR CLINTON RECTORY

Clinton, June 4.—The Ku Klux Klan invaded the grounds of the St. John's Parish House on Cedar Hill and planted a fiery cross about 200 yards from the rectory. The cross which blazed forth shortly before midnight, was ten feet high and had a six-foot arm. Police are investigating.

Shenandoah and WGR Carry on 2-Way Radio Talk

Buffalo, June 4.—Perfect two-way radiophone conversation was carried on between the Shenandoah, giant navy dirigible, and WGR, the broadcasting station of the Federal Telephone Company, here over a radius of fifty miles during the big airship's trip to Albany and back.

The conversation on both sides was so clear that no repeats were necessary.

PHONE COMPANY TRYING OUT HOT TEMPER

"They're trying it out on the dog. If Boston and the rest of New England settle down and accept a levy of a million and a half extra in increased telephone rates there's no reason why it should not work profitably in other sections of the country."

So declares George Hanson, of Chandler & Company, whose firm has joined the protesting army of merchants, business and professional men and subscribers within the local toll radius who are not willing to suffer an increase in 'phone rates, amounting in many instances to several hundred per cent.

CALLED TEST CASE

"This is a test case, undoubtedly," says Mr. Hanson. "It all depends upon how agreeably we accept the increase here as to whether it will be extended.

"Personally, we are not so badly affected as many of the other local houses, but the principle of the matter makes us just as strongly opposed to the increase.

"There's an association between the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company, the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, and the Western Electric Company, that is not particularly wholesome nor quite clear to the public.

"Somehow or other, the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company does not present a thoroughly clean bill of health, or at least its reasons for more revenue do not appear to be based upon clear-cut facts.

"However, public opinion is aroused and the Public Utilities Commission is being given a good opportunity to review these facts. We feel that the admission of the brief of Secretary Bloomfield of the Retail Trade Board, is in itself a victory.

WANT SQUARE DEAL.

"If we all work together, at least to air the situation, we have a better chance to expect a square deal in this matter.

"The telephone company, apparently was under the impression that the whole thing was to be a 'walk-away' and that it would be put over successfully before anyone realized just what was happening.

"Thanks to the information resulting from the well-met arguments of the phone company, the public is alive to the situation and is not ready to accept it lying down."

2 U. S. FLIERS HOP 500 MILES OVER SEA

Arrive Safe at Shanghai; Commander Smith Delayed by Motor Trouble

Shanghai, June 4.—Two of the United States Army round-the-world fliers arrived here this afternoon from Kagoshima, Japan, after a 500-mile flight across the China Sea.

Lieut. Erik Nelson and Lieut. Leigh Wade arrived at 3.30 o'clock, having traveled at an average speed of 71 miles an hour.

Flight leader Smith was compelled to remain behind at Kagoshima, due to motor trouble. He said he would overhaul his engine during the day and make the flight to Shanghai tomorrow morning. According to Smith the trouble was not serious, but he did not like to take the risk of a long jump over the sea unless his motor was working perfectly.

VILLAGERS FIND CAPE COD SHORE BATHED IN ALCOHOL

GALLONS OF BOOZE ON BEACH

Villagers Gather Up Precious Tins Believed Lost From Wrecked Rum-Runner

By GRACE DESCHAMPS

In on the wild waves and the tame waves that lick both sides of the Cape from Orleans to Peaked Hill Bars, on the northeast shores of Provincetown, is coming Belgian alcohol.

Solid, square tins that hold from six to ten gallons of alcohol, sealed overseas, are being pushed in here and there along the shoreline of the last twenty miles of Cape Cod.

And in the wake of the fruitful waves, eager villagers and early vacationists search the shores for one of the precious "finds" that will liven up their ginger ale during the warm months to come.

Belief that one of the daring craft that stand a slim distance out of reach of Coast Guard cutters, has been wrecked by hijackers or a storm, is expressed by Cape Cod villagers, who for the last two weeks have been finding the booty of rum runners along the shore.

This end of the Cape, more particularly Provincetown, is known to be the happy hunting grounds of a fleet of reckless liquor ships which run in their cargo under the nose of the two cutters which ply the waters along this section of the coast.

Gossip is rife that nightly landings have been made not so long ago in the cove formed by the curving shores along Beach Point, just out of Provincetown.

A taxi concern operating in Provincetown is said to be supplying liquor to tourists and residents along the tip of the Cape.

"I can get you anything you want," a chauffeur for this concern told one vacationist. "No questions asked, and you will find it at your door in the morning."

But many lucky searchers between Wellfleet and Provincetown, thanks to whatever fate laid low a rum craft, need not patronize the taxi concern. They are getting it for nothing.

Their marriage in New Bedford followed closely the dropping of a suit for alleged breach of promise, brought by Miss Josephine Oliviere, a Central Falls stenographer.

Police Guard Chinatown; Fear Tong War

HATCHET MEN ARE SOUGHT

Special Patrol Watches the Chinese District Nightly for Strangers From Cleveland

Slummers who like to visit Boston's Chinatown are warned to give it a wide detour for the next few weeks.

When special police details patrol the section nights, sinister rumors are being heard. For the past ten nights six La Grange street station police have been on special assignment in Chinatown, their particular duty being to guard the premises of the Chinese Merchants' Association at Tyler and Beach streets.

With characteristic lack of garrulity, Soo Hoo Wing, acting Mayor of Chinatown, refuses to attach any undue significance to the matter. Yet it is known that the Chinese Merchants' Association applied to Captain Herbert Goodwin for a detail of three police and offered to pay out of their own coffers. The trio, in uniform, was assigned, and for ten days have been on the job.

TONG WAR FORECASTED.

Then Captain Goodwin, following certain information received, detailed three more to the same locale.

Immediately there were reports that a tong war was imminent in Chinatown.

There has been peace in Chinatown since 1867. The tong war at the time resulted in much disorder and several casualties, and wound up with four Chinese hatchetmen being electrocuted.

The Chinese Merchants' Association was organized for the purpose of giving the people of Chinatown a chance to settle their difficulties without recourse to the knife or hatchet.

According to the police, there was a tong war in Cleveland ten days ago. It was immediately after the flare-up in the Ohio city's Chinese quarter that officers of the local Chinese Merchants' Association applied for the police detail, offering to stand the expense. The report is that six Cleveland hatchet men, escaping after a fracas in which several were wounded, are on their way here, and that there may be a Boston followup on the Cleveland tong war.

MAY BE HIDING.

Another report is that the Cleveland tong men are already here, in hiding in the Chinese quarter. It is said that the plain clothes men are trying to find out where they are being harbored, and arrests may follow if they locate them.

In the meantime, the tong situation in Cleveland has by no means quieted down. Police today doubled the guard of patrolmen in the Chinese district through fear of violence that is expected to result from the shooting Thursday of Yee Hee Kee, wealthy merchant, who was attacked by six Chinese gunmen. Another guard has been thrown around the hospital where Yee lies with five bullets in his body, at the point of death.

Passed Bad Check

MRS. ELIZABETH HOLLAND

Brazilian girl dancer was found guilty today of forgery in the case of a Tremont street jewelry firm where she received a $185 diamond ring.

GIRL DANCER FOUND GUILTY OF LARCENY

Mrs. Elizabeth Holland, twenty-four-year-old Brazilian dancer, arrested charged with signing and passing checks in the name of one Mrs. Anna L. Gibson, wealthy Groton woman, was found guilty today in Boston Municipal Court of larceny of $185.

Mrs. Holland, who is the daughter of a prominent portrait painter, will be given a chance, however. The bank which the check went through, and a Boston jeweler from whom she bought a diamond ring and gave the check for $185, are going to get together. The ring will be returned and the money refunded and Mrs. Holland will be sent back to her parents at Shelburne Falls.

Mrs. Holland, whose husband is an engineer on the U. S. S. Leviathan, was arrested at her home in Shelburne Falls.

Just a month ago, Mrs. Gibson, returning to her home from a shopping trip, left her handbag on the train. Efforts to recover it were unavailing. The bag contained a number of letters and papers and a checkbook on the Old Colony Trust Company, where Mrs. Gibson carries an account.

The bag was given up as lost and the incident was almost forgotten when Mrs. Gibson secured her monthly statement from the bank. The cancelled checks returned by the bank included two that Mrs. Gibson had never written. One was drawn to the order of Hall & Edwards, a jewelry firm at No. 118 Tremont street. It was for $185, and was in payment for a diamond ring.

The second check was drawn to the order of a Washington street department store and was for $26.50. The check had been used to pay for a coat.

FORGED CHECKS TRACED.

After several days' investigation the forged checks were finally traced to the Brazilian woman. According to the police, the missing handbag, the ring and the coat were found in the dancer's room. She was arrested.

The police investigation has disclosed that the dancer came to Boston about two years ago. She was married, shortly after her arrival, to Holland, but marital life with a seafaring man did not turn out well and the couple have been separated for some time.

DEATH OF 3 IN WRECK LAID TO CHILDREN

Worcester, June 4.—State, county and police officials and railroad inspectors investigating the wreck in this city last night of the New York bound Twilight Express of the Boston & Albany road, in which three lives were lost, believe the cause of the pony wheels of the locomotive leaving the track was a piece of shale rock placed on the rails probably by children too young to be mindful of possible serious consequences.

There are two distinct spots showing where flat pieces of shale had been crushed on the rail. One rock had been placed on the inside rail nearly opposite to where a rocky path leads down a steep bank to the roadbed. The other rock, the one that caused the pony wheels to leave the rail, was on the outer rail about twenty feet distant toward the Union Station.

When the right pony wheel struck the second stone it jumped, and, in landing, the flange landed on the rail then went off to the right a few feet beyond striking a fish plate then cutting ties for a quarter of a mile before striking a fog which precipitated the wreck.

THE DEAD.

William L. Staples, engineer of wrecked train, aged 56, of No. 47 Royal street, Allston. Died at Worcester hospital of injuries.

Cecil F. Taylor, fireman of wrecked train, aged 32, of No. 15 Royal street, Allston. Instantly killed.

W. R. Peterson, engineer, on road inspection trip, riding in cab of wrecked engine, instantly killed. Home on Circular avenue, Natick.

DR. FRANK CRANE ON PEACE IN WORLD

By DR. FRANK CRANE

ARDENT hopers and prayers for peace will welcome the declarations of Mr. Trotsky of Russia and Mr. MacDonald of England.

The former says:

"We are for peace and brotherhood. The Red Army and Navy are weapons for the defence of the revolution upon which all other countries are continuously making attacks."

The latter says:

"The day of international peace which we celebrate in our May Day is assuredly coming. The nations, tired of conflict and disillusioned of their war hatreds and war mentality, are seeking new paths that make for friendship and security."

It is well known that the United States of America has never been in favor of wars of aggression, and it would take a great deal to induce us to indulge in any kind of war.

If these three nations are as honestly in favor of peace as they seem to be, it is difficult to conceive how there should break out, without them and opposed to them, another great war.

War, after all, is a matter of will power. Wars are undertaken when a nation feels that it is in physical trim for them; in other words, when it has money enough.

The causes of war are well-known; they are, the Superiority Complex on the one hand and Fear on the other.

When a nation is thoroughly shot through with the idea that it is superior to all others, or when it has developed a fear of any other, it is ripe for war as soon as its finances will permit it.

The best cure for war in a country is a disposition to travel on the part of its inhabitants.

By travel they become acquainted with other nations and learn that they are human beings like themselves. They acquire the disposition to help and not to hinder.

If we can spread into every land a distaste for the war mentality we shall do much to carry out the wills of Premiers MacDonald and Trotsky.

PORTUGUESE ARMY FLIERS IN MUTINY

London, June 4.—Portuguese military aviation officers have mutinied, entrenching themselves with sympathizing troops in the aviation camp of Amadora, near Lisbon, says a dispatch to the Morning Post from the Portuguese capital.

The cause of the trouble, says the dispatch, was the appointment of a new aviation chief, Colonel Morais Sarmiento, whom the officers refused to accept, declaring they would only recognize the authority of their dismissed chief, Major Duarte.

44 INDICTED IN LILLY KLAN RIOTS

Johnstown, Pa., June 4.—True bills, charging murder and riot, were returned by the Grand Jury at Ebensburg late last night against forty-four men who were arrested in connection with the fight between visiting Ku Klux Klansmen and residents of the village of Lilly, Pa., two months ago.

A number of the bills charged manslaughter and unlawful assemblage. Twenty-five alleged members of the Klan were charged with carrying concealed deadly weapons. The cases will be called for trial at Ebensburg next Monday.

BANCROFT MORALIZES ON PITCHING AND LACK THEREOF

SAYS GENEWICH IS BASEBALL MYSTERY

By NICK FLATLEY

Pitching, according to Manager David Bancroft, is the one thing that has crossed him all up this Spring and ruined his early hopes of clinging in the first division. According to the boy director, our Braves would now be right up there, except for the unfortunate illness of Rube Marquard, and the strange inability of Joe Genewich to round into form.

Just thinking about these two pitchers makes one realize that the shortstop director knows whereof he speaks. Down South this Spring the venerable Rube looked like several million dollars. He was all set to have another of his many good seasons, and rated the safest bet in the world for at least one victory a week.

The Rube, however, was always fashionable, so he had to have his appendix removed, and the club consequently is minus that one victory in each six days. Had the old boy been on the job in the last three weeks, he would have kept the club up above the .500 mark, which, as the race is going, is a perfect pinnacle point.

Genewich has been one of those baseball mysteries. He was considered, after his performances last season, as the greatest youngster who had broken into the show since Grover Cleveland Alexander. The Braves' worst enemies expected Joseph to win at least two out of every three games he worked.

But Joseph hasn't been doing anything of the kind. He has been getting pasted quite frequently, as he was in the opening joust with the Cincinnati Reds, when he was chased off the peak. The young chap is smart, and a hustler. In the Spring prelims he came through remarkably. But for some unknown reason, his stuff isn't present when he needs it in the ball games.

It may be that warm weather will restore the young man to his proper spot in the pitching firmament. The club surely needs him badly. Joseph feels more about it than anybody else, and is probably working too hard. A couple of wins and he should pull them off shortly in this home stand, will just about set him right.

As we started out to prove, Benny's dope about his pitching is based on sound common sense. Had the Rube and Joe been on the job, the Braves would be in there contending. They're not, however, which is more to the point. The club has done very well, despite many handicaps and as the members all realize, if and when they are going to climb, they will probably do that.

There return home for the entertainment of the West wasn't what you could call impressive. The boys were hogtied by Epps Jeptha Rixey and couldn't do a thing with the Cincinnati southpaw. They collected five scattered hits and it took a shortstop error to give them a run.

Genewich was hit for two runs in the second chapter, enough to have won the game, as was scored against twice in the fourth because of sloppy support, and retired after one run had been sawed off his delivery in the following round. Then Sterling Stryker finished up, and had the Reds tied in knots. But he arrived too late.

These same Reds present a strange lineup, with four of their regulars missing. Rousch, Caveney and Duncan are all out with twisted legs, but will be back for the next series the club plays, over in Philadelphia. Catcher Hargraves and second baseman Fonseca are back in Redland, nursing broken bones, and will not be able to play until the club gets back home, some three weeks hence.

But Manager Jack Hendricks isn't worrying much. With all his cripples he has managed to stay up in the first division, and he figures he can keep doing that until the hospitals release his veterans.

Tennis Stars Play for Charity Next Saturday

The following players will take part in the tennis tournament to be held on the Edwin S. Webster estate, Chestnut Hill, on Saturday afternoon, June 7, in connection with the street fair and fete for the Travelers' Aid Society: Miss Leslie Bancroft, Mrs. Edward Cole, 2d, N. W. Niles, James Davies, Lawrence Rice and Richard Harte. There will be men's doubles and mixed doubles, beginning at 5 o'clock, and the presence of these noted amateurs should bring a large gallery.

MOAKLEY WORKS CORNELL STARS

New York, June 4.—Jack Moakley, Cornell's track and field coach, is going to bring a dozen of his star performers this way for the Eastern sectional tryouts in the Yankee stadium this week.

Three stars will grace the Ithacans' line-up for the big meet on June 7—Eddie Kirby, the Intercollegiate A. A. A. A. mile champion; Fred Lovejoy, winner of the furlong dash at the same meeting a year ago, and Eugene Goodwillie, the former University High School (Chicago) sprinter, who has been credited unofficially with running 100 yards in 9 3-5s seconds.

Moakley's supporting cast will include Bonteou and Greening for the pole vault, Crozier for the 400 meters, Gerry for the 800 meters and Bowen, Wester and Sullivan for the weight events.

DOMINOES PLAY AT SOUTH BOSTON

The Sts. Peter and Paul's A. A. nine will play the "Galloping Dominoes" tomorrow afternoon at the Lee Playground, M street, South Boston.

The Saints expect to have their regular lineup on the field. Some of the players were injured in the last game of the season and are to play again on Thursday.

The Galloping Dominoes are interesting not only for their ability as baseball players but for the clever advertising through the means of their uniforms.

The game will start at 6:15 p. m.

BARE HAND BETTER THAN RACQUET

Providence, June 4.—In an experimental match, arranged as a result of debate here at the club as to whether a man with a racquet would defeat a player without a racquet on a tennis court, resulted in an overwhelming victory for the man who used only his hands. A Nicholas Rez, ace of Boston caught the ball in mit with a racquet by Irving C. Wright of Boston and threw them back. Wright proved practically helpless against the accurate catching and throwing of Rezzie.

TIGERS PICKED TO DEFEAT HARVARD

BATTING ORDER

HARVARD	PRINCETON

The first of the Big Three titles will be decided this afternoon when Harvard meets Princeton at Princeton Park in the third and decisive battle of their series.

It will be the first time in five years, and the eighth time in 56 years, that Harvard and Princeton have had to play a third game to decide a championship series, so that both colleges are more than usually excited about the affair.

Princeton, defeated but twice, and considered one of the strongest teams in the East, is favorite, although the Crimson, because of its impressive win over Princeton in the initial game of the series, is confident.

Phil Spaulding probably will be on the mound for Harvard. It will be his third start against the Tigers this season.

Phil Spaulding.

In the first game he was invincible. He held the heavy-hitting Princeton batsmen, while his teammates garnered seven counters off Charley Caldwell, Princeton star slab artist, and considered one of the best college pitchers in the East, as a result of his great duel with Owen Carroll of Holy Cross.

The Crimson nine is on the tail-end of a genuine slump. The team dropped two games in a row to Brown. The batting average of the team has tumbled 12 points in the past three games, as the team has averaged but four-hit to a game.

Tom Campbell, the lanky first baseman, is the only man to keep up in the batting. He has slammed out 5 of the 12 hits made by the Crimson men in the past three engagements, three of them for extra bases.

A victory over Harvard today would be fine for Princeton, for it would eliminate Harvard from the Big Three title series, and would leave Princeton sitting pretty on the high perch.

GRADWELL AFTER GO WITH MURPHY

Willie Gradwell, New England featherweight who has won his last 10 starts, is eager for action again. Gradwell would like to box Billy Murphy of Lowell. The Somerville youth has handed Finny Boyle of the Spindly three good lacings and would like to hand the same to Murphy.

Player Breaks Leg

SAN SAVINO IS WINNER OF DERBY

cheered by hundreds of thousands in the enormous throng as he led his winning horse into the paddock. It was perhaps the proudest moment of his life.

Sansovino's time was 2 minutes 46 2-5 seconds, which is 12 1-5 seconds slower than the record. Rounding Tattenham corner, Sansovino held the premier position. He kept the lead from then on and won in a canter.

The winner was ridden by Weston. St. Germans by Bullock and Hurstwood by V. Smith. Steve Donoghue, riding J. B. Joel's Defiance, finished last.

Lord Rosebery's Parmenio finished fourth. Frank O'Neill on King George's Resinato finished fourteenth. Sir A. Bailey's Bucks Yeoman threw his jockey, Smirke, but the rider was uninjured.

VICTOR WAS FAVORITE.

Seven years after the race was founded the then Lord Derby's horse, Sir Peter Teazle, captured the classic event. Ever since then Lord Derby has been trying to win the Derby. Today he finally succeeded.

Sansovino, who had been made favorite in the event overnight, was 9 to 2 against in betting.

Viscount Astor's St. Germans was 100 to 7 against and Somerville Tattersall's Hurstwood 20 to 1 in.

The great race attracted more persons than any other event in the world of sport, more money was at stake and more people had bets down than in any other contest of sport the world over.

Probably $10,000,000 was placed in bets. About 65 per cent of all the people in England had a bet down on the race.

Some of the sweepstakes netted an enormous sum to the person who holds the lucky ticket on the winner.

Last year the Calcutta sweep on the Derby paid $610,000 to a Liverpool woman in modest circumstances. The Calcutta sweep may be worth $700,000 to the winner this year.

First prize in the London Stock exchange sweep is $250,000 this year.

There are several thousand other sweeps with big prizes. The Dublin sweep nets $200,000 to the holder of the winning ticket. Nearly every club or society has its sweep on the Derby for its members.

GERMAN FLYWEIGHT HERE FOR MATCHES

Felix Friedman, the flyweight champion of Germany, has arrived in town and placed himself under the direction of Eddie Mack. Friedman, while in this country, has been under the direction of Bob Levy, manager of Battling Siki, and Levy has sent him to Mack in the could not give his attention to the crack German flyweight. Mack wants to match Friedman with Young Jack Sharkey, Herbert of Lowell or any other flyweight.

ENGLISH RETAINS REGIMENTAL TITLE

English high track team successfully defended its Regimental outdoor field and track championship at the M. I. T. field, Cambridge, topping the other Boston high school squads with a total of 56 points, 4½ more than Hyde Park, its nearest competitor.

RED SOX START RIGHT; BEAT BROWNS, 8-7

St. Louis, Mo., June 4.—This western debut for the Boston Red Sox is a sort of home-and-home proposition for St. Louis. But with all of the spoils on the wrong side of the bench for the Browns' rooters. With the Red Sox still hanging on to the heels of the Yankees and the Browns scrambling around in the second division, Lee Fohl is not offering any regrets over the "released for the good of the game as played by the Browns" message he received from Magnate Ball of the Browns.

Since the Red Sox put on that remarkable spurt in the East in winning 18 out of 25 games and leaping from the cellar to a pennant position the Western folks have wondered at the Red Sox. One game convinced the local followers that the Red Sox belong just where they are—a few steps from the lead.

FERGUSON EXCELLENT AS RELIEF PITCHER.

In winning the opening game in the series with the Browns, the Red Sox bunched hits, had excellent relief pitching several times, especially by Ferguson in the ninth inning.

Having knocked out the Browns' hill ace, Urban Shocker, the Red Sox are prepared to pocket the entire series and move up to Chicago during the week end. Fohl's originally pitching plans were jammed up a bit when he had to use Ehmke in back of Jack Quinn yesterday and Ferguson or Fullerton probably will work today against Dave Danforth with Ehmke resting until the closing game.

STUFF THE WINNERS ARE MADE OF.

The Red Sox, while not claiming anything, this early in the season, carry the marks of a successful club. There is a winning spirit on the field. When Joe Harris hit over the left field fence with the winning wallop in the eighth inning a dozen of Fohl's athletes hopped off the bench to shower Joe with their admiration. That's the stuff that wins close games and had Joe filed out there would have been a 5-4 defeat for the Sox instead of a victory.

Incidentally this Harris, while not carrying the fame of Ruth, Williams, Heilmann and other fence busters, is playing a prominent part in the Sox spurt. He drove in six runs with his three singles and home run.

As the Yankees started with a victory over the White Sox the Red Sox did not gain any ground the first day. But there are others to follow and while Fohl remains a silent manager he will not be among those who are surprised to see the Red Sox sneak into the lead during this Western journey.

CHARGES MALONE IS SIDESTEPPING BOUT WITH MOODY

BRITON HAS TERRIFIC WALLOP

By JACK CONWAY

It looks like Jack Malone, St Paul's fighting harp, wants to s.destep Frank Moody, sensational Welshman, whose batting has been one of the outstanding features of baseball in America since his arrival in the United States. Malone is afraid of Moody's wallop, having seen the Welshman hand a terrific wallop to Jack Wilson, Barney Moody got a shade the better of the argument, but Malone knows he can take it and dish it out. Moody is willing to meet Malone in the squared circle, but Malone is afraid of Moody's wallop, having seen the Welshman hand a terrific wallop to Jack Wilson, Barney Moody got a shade the better of the argument, but Malone knows he can take it and dish it out.

Seething Life of a Lovely Boston Girl of This Strange Today

Chickie laughed hysterically

IT WAS a day that passed was a victory. One night Jonathan raised her chin upward: "You don't eat enough to keep a bird alive, do you, mother?"

Jennie smiled. "Girls don't today. It's the fashion. They must be toothpicks!"

Chickie asked boldly: "No [illegible]

A plain, firm arrangement is better than any gentleman's agreement. It is said that Mexico will now be flooded with Japanese. That threat may safely be left to the Mexican government.

HAVANA BANKS STOP CHECK CASHING

Havana, June 4.—The nine banks comprising the local Clearing House Association announced that they had ceased cashing checks, other than certified ones, drawn on interior banks. The ground taken by the banks was that the irregular mail service, due to the general railroad strike, was causing much delay in the presenting of checks for payment.

President Zayas is said to have told a delegation of business men which waited on him that the strike was unjustified and to have promised to what he could to end it.

CIDER SEIZED BY FEDERAL AGENTS

Groton, June 4.—Federal agents raided a building on the farm of Daniel A. O'Connell on the Groton road in Tyngsboro and seized 1,500 gallons of cider, which it is alleged showed 7 per cent. alcohol.

Daniel Defoe, a lumber foreman, armed with a revolver, ordered the agents off the premises, but he was overpowered and placed under arrest by Chief Joseph Pelletier of the Tyngsboro police department, who accompanied the raiding party.

AVOIDS HITTING DOG, GIRL WRECKS AUTO

Milford, June 4.—Miss Alice Ritz of Upton, school teacher in Mendon, swerved her auto wheel sharply to avoid hitting a dog owned by Frank Aldrich of Mendon and before she could stop the machine it crashed against a tree, breaking both wheels on the right side and tearing off the fender and step.

The accident occurred near the Aldrich home on North avenue. Her brother was riding in the car, but neither was injured.

FATHER OF EIGHT DIES OF AUTO INJURY

Lawrence, June 4.—Francis S. Caron, forty-six years old, died in Lawrence Memorial Hospital from injuries received when struck by an automobile on Broadway and Cross street.

The driver of the car, Nicholas Paolino, of No. 18 Logan street, will be charged with manslaughter. He claims Caron stepped in front of his machine and he was unable to avoid hitting him.

Caron leaves a wife and eight children.

BAY STATE GUARD OFFICER HONORED

Worcester, June 4.—Major Slater Washburn, executive officer of the 52nd Infantry Brigade, M. N. G., has been commissioned by the War Department to represent the 26th Division, Massachusetts National Guard, at the war maneuvers of the French government to be held in France the latter part of July.

Major Washburn has been granted a three months' leave of absence from his duties with the guards. He will remain in Europe for more than two months and he will be accompanied by Mrs. Washburn.

GUARD FOR DOCTOR ACCUSED OF MURDER

Harrisburg, Pa., June 4.—Police stood guard at the door of a room in a local hospital where Dr. Cornelius M. Dailey lies with a bullet wound through his lung, pursued at the first opportunity to serve a warrant charging him with the murder of Mrs. Anna Manbeck, found shot to death in his office.

Refusal of physicians to permit officers to enter the room, on the grounds that shock of the serious ball might result fatally, held back the formal arrest of the physician.

THREE ARRESTED FOR ALLEGED RUM SALE

Three men were arrested by the Back Bay police after, it is alleged, they sold a case of whiskey to a police officer.

They are James Costello, fifty-two years old, of Commonwealth avenue; Samuel Cooper, twenty-six years old, of Wolfson street, Dorchester, and Clarence E. Troy of Beal street, Brookline. They are charged with violation of the liquor law.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. F. X. Mahoney
Boston Health Commissioner

THE other evening I was calling on some friends when a young son of the household, unable to withstand the pain, summoned his mother from the living room to treat him for the earache. The little fellow was suffering greatly and it recalled vividly to me the days when I was a youngster and suffered the same way.

There is no pain more agonising than earache. The ear is so close to the brain that the pain seems to be in the brain itself.

Between the drum of the ear and the structures protecting the internal ear is a cavity called the middle ear. There is a tube running from the nose to this middle ear which supplies air to the middle ear—also drains it of any fluid which may accumulate there.

When a child catches cold these tubes leading to the middle ear often become inflamed. They swell shut and the tubes therefore cannot carry off the fluids that gather in the middle ear. The fluids continue to pile up inside the middle ear and the pressure of these fluids on the delicate tissue causes the pain.

When an earache "breaks," it is simply nature's way of discharging the accumulations from the middle ear in the easiest way—through the outer ear.

Chronic catarrh, adenoids and bad tonsils in many instances cause the earache and lead to deafness, while the attendant pain they cause is almost unbearable. These diseased tissues should be gotten rid of as quickly as possible and the physician is the one to consult about such matters.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED

My father has been in pain for the last five or six months. He has pains in his stomach and his stomach gets so bad at a rock at times. Has been in the hospital for some of the bouts. Can you tell me the name of an expert physician for him? W. W.

It is not quite the name of an expert physician that you want, but I should recommend that you take your father to the Boston Dispensary, or to the City Hospital or the Mass. Gen. Hospital.

Would like your advice on a cold I have had for over a year. I am continually sneezing and my nose is running all the time. Have used all kinds of cold tablets, but cannot get relief. Please tell me something which will relieve the trouble. Met to an automobile accident about four years ago. Had a piece taken out of the bridge of my nose. My left nostril seems to be partly closed. Do you think this has anything to do with the trouble. It seems to me that the accident which you went to four years ago probably has much to do with your present nose trouble. The mucous membrane is probably in a very poor condition. I would suggest that you see a nose specialist.

I am a little deaf. Some times I can hear every word which is said and other times I cannot hear a word. I would be thankful if you would tell me what causes it and what would relieve it. Miss F. O. Go to the Mass. Eye and Ear Infirmary and have your ears examined. From what you say, it seems to be that the trouble is probably in the tube which leads from your ear to your throat.

Little brother just started to school this year and the other day a neighbor asked him how he liked school.

"I like it," he answered.

"And do you like teacher?"

"Yes, but she doesn't know any things."

"Why, what makes you think that?"

"Because she puts things on the board and we have to tell her what they are."

Things We Could Get Along Without

MEDBURY SAYS---

By John P. Medbury

CULTURED people are so welcome everywhere that a lot of men are now studying to be gentlemen.

IT'S wonderful to be polished and know what restaurants to take your hat off in.

ONE guy started being polite to his girl and she dropped him. She thought he was getting sarcastic.

SHE became suspicious when he found a seat in the street car and gave it to her instead of taking it himself.

THE only way he could win her back was to let her stand up all the way home.

SOME men are so proud of being a gentleman that they go around bragging about it.

THEY don't think you'll know they're refined unless they tell you.

AND there's no sense in being a gentleman if you've got to keep it a secret.

IT'S nice to have a good set of manners even if you never do get a chance to use them.

ONE guy who's trying as hard as he can to be a gentleman never opens his mouth without consulting the book of etiquette.

HE reads at night and rehearses in the day time.

BUT he carries it too far. The last time he was arrested he said "Thank you" to the cop who threw him into the patrol wagon.

IT'S wonderful to be able to go into a swell place and know the answer to "What is wrong with this picture?"

ONE guy visited at a millionaire's home and when he saw three or four butlers in brass buttons he thought the place was being raided.

HE knocked all the butlers unconscious before he discovered they were working there.

The Helping Hand

Rose-Colored Sweater

Editor Helping Hand:

I have a rose-colored sweater, size 42, and gray skirt and pair of shoes, size 6, which I would be glad to send to some one. A short time ago I read about a woman who had maple syrup she couldn't get rid of. Will you please send me her address as we can use some?

I. M. H.

Thank you. We have sent you the address of Mrs. L. A., who wears the sizes you offer and of Mrs. M. C. 6 for which you ask.

Offer of Sorrowing Mother

Editor Helping Hand:

Just a few lines as we know you will feel sorry for me. I buried my darling little baby Wednesday—she was seven months old. I have a few dresses and some new diapers I would like to give to some poor person as my heart is broken. I cannot bear to see her clothes around. I received two bundles, one from Mrs. T. of Providence and one from Mrs. J. P. P. of Dover, N. H. I wish some one could give me a stroller. I went out to work for three hours today as I have so many bills to pay, the undertaker, the doctor and the hospital. My husband is only working two days a week as the mill is shut down from Tuesday night to Monday morning.

MRS. M. ON.

We are sure all who read the Helping Hand will sympathize with you in your sorrow. It is very good of you to want to pass on your darling's clothes and we will send you the address of a needy mother. Perhaps some one will want to help your other children, whose ages are publish again—girls, eight and six; boys, three and nineteen months.

AMERICAN TO TEST OUT RECEIVERS

Radio Staff Will Report on Comparative Merits of Commercial Sets

By A. B. HOAG,
Radio Editor.

What is the best receiver for me to buy with the money I can afford to invest and the purpose for which I want it?

The Boston American will help you to answer this question during the Summer by presenting to you a description of the various receivers now on the market with a report on their actual operation as studied by members of the technical staff.

These reports will be unbiased and candid. If a set is listed as an expensive one, this will be stated. Defects will be listed, along with merits.

In this connection it should be understood that the perfect receiver is not yet now and probably will not be for some time. There is no set, even that is "the best," any more than there is any automobile which is "the best."

NO "BEST" SET.

One receiver may give better volume than another, but the other may have better quality. One may tune more sharply than another, but the other may tune more easily.

Because these sets will be studied in actual operation as well as in the test data will be complete enough to enable the prospective buyer to make an intelligent selection.

At least two members of the staff will study the operation of each receiver so that there will be no possibility of a personal bias, and no error of judgment as the result of the peculiar conditions of a single evening.

Further assistance to prospective buyers will be given by answers to specific questions regarding the work of various receivers, and their comparative merits.

FULL DESCRIPTION.

Here is what will be given each in the case of each receiver to sum up:

1.—Type of set, including hookup.

2.—Accessories needed antenna or loop, etc.

3.—Cost of set and cost of accessories.

4.—Results of operating tests.

5.—Advantages and disadvantages of the set.

If you have any set in mind on which you would like a report, the American will be glad to accommodate you as soon as a complete test can be made.

AERIALS NOT ALWAYS USED IN RADIO

Radio aerials as used today were not always a part of radio equipment. Marconi and others in their experiments during 1896 had not yet learned about aerials, and they used metal balls and discs called reflectors. The field set up by these radiators was so small that transmission could not be carried on over great distances. When signals were sent across a one mile and a half stretch of country it was regarded as wonderful.

The following year elevated pipes and screens were used for aerials, and the transmission range increased greatly. It did not occur to the radio men to use the ground for one connection until an accidental grounding of the low potential side of the transmitter showed a greatly increased signal at the receiving end. This improvement, together with the use of an elevated net of wires, increased the range to thirty-four miles.

Experiments indicated that a multiple wire aerial was best for transmitting and a single wire best for receiving. Later a special aerial loadie was designed, made up of seven strands of copper wire, which is used extensively in radio today.

LAST NIGHT ON THE AIR

BY THE LISTENER

Last night was full of good entertainment for those who are fond of orchestral and band music. WNAC gave the Pop concert from Symphony Hall, WGI had the Malden Band, WGY had a musical play well furnished with orchestra selections, while WBZ put on an excellent program by the prize winning pupils of the Music School Settlement.

The Pop concert from Symphony Hall was as usual a thing of beauty. The Boston Square and Compass Club, under the leadership of Warren W. Adams, gave several choir selections which were distinctly out of the ordinary.

Choir singing in a large hall such as the Symphony seems to resonate in such a way as to make it all the more pleasing. WNAC is certainly doing a fine work in connection with these Symphony Hall broadcasts.

Schenectady and Springfield were about the same with me last night. The musical play "The Belle of Beaujolais" had some mighty pretty orchestra numbers in it, but WGY faded rather badly, and I couldn't make out the words of the songs very well.

The WBZ program was somewhat better in this respect, as it was mostly all instrumental. Someone in my neighborhood, however, was letting their set oscillate, and at times the violin solos sounded like piccolo duets.

The WGI program last night was rained almost completely in my location on account of some horrible noise which was on their wave. There was some interference between WGI and WJAR, but this did not wholly account for it. It sounded as though someone in the neighborhood, with a powerful transmitting set, was deliberately shooting out a wave so as to blanket WGI's program.

If such was the case, I think it was poor judgement. The only sensible way to kick about a program is to write the broadcasting station a letter. Strongarm methods don't work, and are unsportsmanlike. What I did hear of the Malden program, however, was mighty good, and worthy of highest comment.

My old friend WJZ popped in on me for a short call last night. I distinctly heard Leslie Smith play some excellent piano solos, one of which was "At Dawning." One thing which impressed me was the clarity with which the piano are reproduced. WJZ followed up with a drama, which, excepting for a light static, would have been quite entertaining. I also heard some dribbles of code interference around 450 meters, but it was away off in the distance, and undoubtedly some foreign vessel who had a right to use that wavelength.

I have received a letter from the C. T. Sherer Company, of Worcester, asking if any of the Greater Boston fans have picked up their Station WDBH. This is a new station, and works on 263 meters. Their hours are 10:00 a. m. to noon and from 4 p. m. to 6:30 p. m.

On Monday, Wednesday and Saturday nights they have evening concerts which commence at 8:00 p. m. All schedules are on Eastern Daylight Saving Time. Any of the readers in and near Boston might try WDBH a line if they hear him.

MAINE
Vacationland
Where Dreams Come True
Travel by rail, steamer or motor to the Pine Tree State. If by motor, you speed over smooth roadways, along a picturesque coast, with famous beaches, rocky heights, curving bays, quaint seaports and interesting cities.
You linger, perhaps, for a few days at some fascinating resort, for golf, horseback riding, a dip in the surf, charmed by the dancing and diversion; meeting old friends, making new ones.
Then again the call of the Road.
On, on, through smiling countrysides and engaging hamlets—by the shores of river and lake—in the shadows of forest and great mountain—on to a wilder region of solitude and silence—on to the chosen spot, the Camp in the Wilderness overlooking the Lake of Lakes.
Magic days: dip of paddle, casting of fly, grim battle with game fish—hike to surmounting peak—the glowing campfire with its companionship and savory cheer—long dreamless sleep. Days full to overflowing with rejuvenating zest. Scrolled cards for mounting. Well equipped railroads and steamboat lines operated under convenient schedules. Competent licensed guides available for all regions.
Plan your honeymoon in Maine.
MAINE'S AGRICULTURAL AND INDUSTRIAL OPPORTUNITIES EXPLAINED ON APPLICATION

BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, JUNE 4, 1924

BOSTON AMERICAN

LARGEST EVENING CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND

The building world began doffing its hat to New England granite nearly 100 years ago, when the Bunker Hill Monument project began to take shape. At that time New England granite men built the first railway in the United States.

Granite isn't worrying. The New England granite industry is manned by Minute Men. Granite, proved by time, endorsed by the centuries, can afford to wait. Cheapness NEVER was synonymous with merit, granite ALWAYS has meant strength, honesty, lastingness.

Boston Acclaims Beauty and Durability of New England Granite---But Builds of Middle West Limestone

Almost every visitor to the White Mountains of New Hampshire makes it a point to see the huge and interesting rock-conformation upon the side of Profile Mountain in the Franconia Range.

From a certain point of view and at a distance, it bears a wonderful resemblance to a human face.

This remarkably complete and distinct profile is nearly 1,500 feet above the little lake below, is from 60 to 80 feet in length, and about 36 feet high.

Hawthorne refers to the profile in "The Great Stone Face." It is more popularly known as "the Old Man of the Mountain." It is formed on the upper part of Mount Cannon, by three ledges of GRANITE.

Minute Men and members of their families, who are numbered among White Mountain "regulars," and who never visit the white hills without paying at least one visit to the Profile, must not be surprised this year if they note an alarming change in the Old Man's appearance.

It certainly will be no surprise to the men who are out front in the granite industry of New England if they learn, tomorrow or the next day, that the lower jaw of King Granite, alias Stone Face, alias the Old Man of the Mountain, has dropped twenty feet.

And the reason—this according to men in the granite industry—is the recent indifference of Boston to that enduring stone, the name of which poet and orator have made synonymous with the rugged honesty, the sterling virtues of New England.

"Whenever they think of New England, out there beyond the Hudson," says the Old Man of the Mountain, "they think of granite.

"I claim SOME credit for this, myself, for here I have been, century after century, telling the world that for durableness, for lastingness, for permanence, there is nothing that will stand up beside this New England stone.

"There IS something in the theory, or common belief, that the strength, the honesty, the sturdiness and the power of our rock finds its way into the character of the best of our men. Toastmasters and chairmen of the evening, who present New England speakers with happy references to their "native granite" and its significance, have plenty of fact and history upon which to base this familiar introduction.

"Beyond the Hudson, I say, I have 'sold' granite quite successfully. There is granite from New England quarries all over the United States. Every city of importance in the country, even far out on the Pacific Coast, points with pride to a conspicuous building or two of granite.

"But Boston!

"Ten thousand New Englanders who blast their livings out of New England quarries, who pay the butcher, the baker and the electric light man, send Willie and Mary to school and pay for the little vineclad cottage, out of solid rock, today are asking why Boston has 'gone back on granite.'

"PLEASE don't interrupt me; remember, I am breaking a silence of centuries. You are going to remind me of the Boston Public Library, the Museum of Fine Arts, the Custom House Tower, the Massachusetts Trust, First National and Shawmut Bank Buildings.

"Quite so, but some of these are comparatively ancient structures by this time, and what perplexes us of the granite industry is that Boston's present building boom has had such small effect upon us.

"We would not urge the use of granite in the construction of ALL buildings, nor of many types of building, but we do say it cannot be equalled in monumental buildings of the permanent type; as, for example, city halls and other government houses, post offices, libraries, railroad stations, bank buildings.

"Boston quite recently has given this characteristically New England product two black eyes and a split ear. And now comes Massachusetts, with what sounds like a threat to make a complete job of it. I refer to the proposed War Memorial, which some one suggests should be built of Colorado marble!

"Almost ready for occupancy, at Milk, Federal and Devonshire streets, is the new home of the First National Bank.

"What is it made of?

"Much limestone and some sandstone, brought to New England from points thousands of miles distant.

"Then there is the new Chamber of Commerce building, in Federal street, with a granite base but a limestone superstructure; and within a few days the masons will be getting busy on a new home for the State Street Trust Company, not far from the Old State House. Except for a granite base-course, this last will be made of artificial stone.

"Institutions, of course, have the legal right to spend their money where they will, but nothing is so well calculated as granite to proclaim the strength, the honesty and the invincibility of a great bank; and I am strengthened and encouraged in this belief by the fact that while recently we have lost these two Boston banks we have successfully 'sold' granite to the new Mellon National Bank, at Pittsburgh, Pa.

"The name of Mellon means something right now in American finance, as it has for more than a generation, indeed, and I do not mind saying that the Mellon National Bank in Pittsburgh will probably be a better selling argument for New England granite than fifteen new banks in Boston.

"Oh, I know they say there is 'no sentiment in business,' but I don't believe it. Certainly there is, or there should be, a sentimental feeling between New England and New England granite, between New England finance and New England industry.

"WE have not forgotten, even if Boston appears to have done so, for the moment, that the granite industry of today is an outgrowth of the recognition given to granite by the Boston of an earlier day.

"While buildings of notable pretension had been erected as early as 1737, when the old Hancock house was built of Braintree boulders, it was not until the Bunker Hill Monument was projected, in 1825, that the granite industry got a real start.

"Solomon Willard, who came to Boston in 1804 from his native Petersham in Worcester County, was the father of the granite business in the United States. The great work of Solomon Willard's life was Bunker Hill Monument.

"Ground was broken on June 7, 1825, the plan submitted by Solomon Willard was chosen from among fifty, and on October 31 in the same year the building committee made Willard architect and superintendent.

"After walking 300 miles in his examination of New England granite quarries—he gave $1,000 to the Monument Association—Solomon Willard found his 'Bunker Hill Quarry' in Quincy, 12 miles from Bunker Hill.

"Promptly there arose the question of how to get the granite to Charlestown with the least delay, at the lowest possible cost and with the greatest assurance of safety.

"I wonder how many of the younger generation know that Solomon Willard and Bunker Hill Monument thus came to be responsible for the construction of the first railroad in the United States?

"The opening of that Bunker Hill quarry, a century ago, led presently to the discovery and opening of other New England quarries, and, as one historian says, gave an impulse to the business which 'adorned our cities with splendid and substantial buildings.' The new granite industry expanded and prospered.

"For fifty years or more the granite pioneers talked mostly of but two great performances, the monument in Charlestown, 221 feet and 5 inches tall, and the building of the lighthouse on Minot's Ledge.

"'Minot's Light,' the historian says, 'tells of labor bravely performed under difficulties in the solution of one of the most perplexing problems ever presented to the Light-house service, and of a victory for man through the courage, perseverance and ingenuity of Lieutenant-Colonel Alexander, its constructor.'

"Bids are being advertised even now for the construction of the Delaware River bridge between Philadelphia and Camden, two of the main piers being already in the river. I have seen this projected bridge referred to as the largest in the world; what most interests me about it is that the specifications call for granite construction and that, moreover, Massachusetts granite already has been used on parts of the anchorage.

"Oh, yes, the rest of the country appreciates New England granite, even if Boston, for the time being, does not.

"In New York City, the Pennsylvania Station—tell me, if you can, where may its like be seen?—the Municipal Building, the Post Office, the Bankers' Trust building, the new Court House, the $3,000,000 Telephone building, at Broadway and Dey Streets, ALL of New England granite!

"In Washington, the Union Station, the local Post Office, the National Museum, the Treasury Building, the State, War and Navy building.

"Cleveland proudly exhibits her City Hall and her Court House, Hartford her insurance buildings, Madison the Wisconsin State Capitol, Harrisburg the Pennsylvania Capitol, Los Angeles the Security National Bank, and New York, to return for a moment, the Cathedral of St. John the Divine.

"One of the largest and costliest monumental structures ever erected in this country is under way at Alexandria, Virginia, the George Washington Masonic Memorial.

"This conspicuous shrine will be entirely of New Hampshire granite, the famous and indescribably beautiful 'Conway pink.'

"Each of the Six States which we call New England, and which we like to see stand as one where their interests are involved, is famous for its granite.

"Maine has her own great quarries at Stonington, North Jay and Hallowell; New Hampshire's best granite comes from Concord, Milford and Conway. The granite centres of Vermont are Barre, Bethel and Woodbury, and of Massachusetts Quincy, Rockport, Chelmsford and Milford.

"Think of granite in connection with Rhode Island and the name of Westerly presents itself, while Connecticut finds the wonder rock in Stony Creek and Waterford.

"Granite DOES 'cost more.'

"That fact will not be disputed.

"Granite is a HARDER stone than some of the materials it is forced to compete with. It costs more to quarry it and it costs more to cut it. It will not lend itself as readily as softer materials to be worked by machinery. Granite demands SKILLED workmen.

"But, everything that is worth while costs more. Nature has a way of arranging things that way. Some of the softer stones that are preferred over granite, because of the difference in price, can be cut as you would cut cheese. Tools that will not make a dent in New England granite slide through its cheaper competitors like a knife going through warm butter.

"Limestone and sandstone, for example, are aqueous or sedimentary rocks; in other words, petrified mud.

"What is THEIR history?

"How were THEY made?

"Simply by the settling down, in old sea-bottoms, of shells, coral and other elements of marine life, which gradually formed into stone.

"And what is granite, by comparison?

"Granite is an igneous rock, which means it was produced by FIRE.

"Granite was formed by the slow cooling and crystallizing of molten, glasslike matter, under the pressure of the overlying rock.

"Had this molten matter cooled RAPIDLY and in the open, under ordinary conditions, what we now know as granite would have been, to all intents and purposes, nothing but glass.

"Granite IS what it is, the 'noblest of building-stone,' because in Nature's great laboratory AGES were required for its formation.

"The granite industry of New England made no loud complaint when the Chamber of Commerce went to Indiana for the stone for its new building, nor when the First National Bank sought the same far-away source for a massive structure without even a base-course of good old New England granite; but every man of the 10,000 who make a living in these quarries wonders if it CAN be true that Massachusetts thinks of building a memorial to her soldiers and sailors in anything less than New England granite.

"The men and the deeds which such a memorial would perpetuate are best symbolized in granite. No other stone or material could do it so well. The 'stern and rock-bound coast' was and is a coast lined with granite ledges and boulders. Our forefathers first stepped foot in Massachusetts on Plymouth Rock, a GRANITE rock which we cherish as symbol of our hardy ancestry.

"I LIKE the idea of your Minute Men. It is good to talk these things over; good to boost the Port of Boston, which in a large sense is the Port of New England; good to proclaim the surpassing attractions of New England as Summer and Winter playground of the Nation; good to boost New England shoes, and good to champion New England textiles.

"Ours is not one of the foremost New England industries, measured by the number of men employed or by the value in dollars of their yearly output, but more than any other, except perhaps fisheries and agriculture, it is the industry most indelibly associated with the name given to these Six States.

"Wherefore, we respectfully bespeak for granite and the granite industry as a whole the moral and sentimental support of Minute Men everywhere."

The warning recently addressed by Professor George E. Russell of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology to his fellow citizens of Arlington, against the use of Middle West limestone in the construction of public buildings, calls attention to the fact that, while there is a pronounced building boom under way in Boston, 90 per cent. of the building-boom structures are made of Middle West limestone. No wonder the Old Man of the Mountain feels peeved! Smaller wonder that the 10,000 New Englanders employed in New England granite quarries show signs of developing a grievance. Professor Russell speaks well of New England marble, sandstone and brick. "On the point of durability," he says, "New England granite is, of course, the best." Because of the historic no less than the potential importance of the great granite industry of New England, the attention of Minute Men is directed today to the granite-limestone controversy. Read, on this page, WHY granite "costs more," as explained by granite men.
